TWO BANDITS HOLD UP MAIL TRAIN

Today

Close to Murder.
Blessed Hope.
When a Man Worries.
If Held Up—Smile.

DR. DORAN, chief chemist in the prohibition forces, declares that it is necessary to put into industrial alcohol poisons that the bootleggers cannot get rid of when they redistill denatured alcohol to make bootleg whisky. Senator Reed, of Missouri, says that for the government to put poison in alcohol, knowing that citizens will drink the alcohol, is a near approach to murder.

However, those foolish enough to drink bootleg whisky habitually would probably not live long anyhow.

SCIENTISTS gathered at Williamstown possess the blessed gift of hope. They say chemistry will end all our worries, including food problems. Power locked up in the revolving electrons will run all our machinery, no need or coal, oil or water power. Artificial rubber, better than the genuine, will be made from petroleum. Artificial stone for buildings will take the place of brick shells on buildings.

THE best of it is that all this, and much more, is true. The real wealth of the human race is not in oceans, in fertile soil or even in sunlight. It is principally in the brain of man.

MANY gentlemen, young and old, not interested in the proceedings of the scientific gathering at Oxford university, are intensely interested in the coming prize fight between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney. Some preparing to bet their money on Mr. Dempsey may be interested in the advice of one who knows about fighters and their mental caliber. He says:

"Be careful how you bet on a man that is worried, when he has a limited intellect, not calculated to endure worry."

Dempsey is worried. He quarreled with his manager, who threatens to tie up the receipts of his next fight. He hasn't fought for three years and can only guess whether he is as good as ever. Be careful how you bet on him that is worried.

"IF A holdup man faces you with his automatic," says a wise detective, 'stick 'em up' promptly, when he tells you to. Don't seem nervous, or he will get nervous and perhaps shoot.

SEIZE POUCH OF REGISTERED LETTERS, THEN FLEE IN AUTO

Bind Messenger and Clerk Before Looting Car.

WYOMING ROBBERY

Tamper With Semaphore Signals to Stop Flyer.

RAWLINS, Wyo., Aug. 14.—Two heavily armed bandits early today held up Union Pacific train No. 5, fast west bound mail train, 40 miles west of here, bound and gagged a clerk and messenger in the mail car, emptied the contents of a registered mail pouch into a bag, jumped from the train which they had stopped on signal and fled.

Armed posses are scouring the rugged countryside for the train robbers, who are believed to have escaped in a waiting automobile.

Loot Runs Into Thousands.

No estimate of the loss is available, but officials expressed the belief that it would run into the thousand of dollars.

According to Sheriff Austin of Carbon county, the two men had evidently tampered with the semaphore signals in such a manner as to turn the "red" light on, thus stopping the train, enabling them to board it.

They entered the mail car by breaking a window, bound and gagged the clerk and messenger, and hastily turned the contents of the registered pouch into their own sack.

The hold-up occurred shortly after 2 o'clock this morning.

Bandits Grab $200,000 Diamonds

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 14.—Police today had no clue to the two bandits who grabbed the jewel case containing unset diamonds valued at $200,000 and slugged Sol Roseman, a salesman for the firm of A. Moseman and company, New York city, as Roseman alighted from a taxicab at the Great Northern station here last night.

Roseman had left his hotel to board a train for Grand Forks, N. D., accompanied by O. R. Goodman of Chicago, also a jewelry salesman. When they arrived at the railroad station two men stepped up to the taxicab and as the jewelry salesman alighted, the jewel case was snatched from Roseman. When Rosemen attempted to offer resistance, a revolver was pressed against his body. A second bandit then slugged Roseman into unconsciousness. The full amount of insurance is carried on the diamonds.

SOLONS STEAL "THUNDER" OF SCHOOL BOARD

Apply to Budget Commission for Increased Levy.

RELIEF ACT MOVE

Millage Will be Taken From Education Apportionment.

The city council has literally stolen the "thunder" of the East Liverpool board of education in an effort to obtain additional funds for operating expenses, judging from a resolution passed July 15, last, and filed today in County Auditor Elmer E. Walker's office in Lisbon.

The resolution provides for an increased levy, and should it be granted the funds obtained by the municipality will be taken from the present levy of the board of education. However, it is pointed out that the board of education can secure additional funds by seeking an extra levy at the November election.

Council took advantage of the provisions of Section 5649-5f which provides:

"The taxing authorities of any municipality may by resolution adopted by a two-thirds vote levy annually for the general purposes of the municipality in addition to the levy for current expenses within the 10-mill limitation prescribed by the General Code of the tax rate, a tax not exceeding three and a half mills upon each dollar of the taxable property of such municipality. The budget commission shall not reduce the total levies for current expenses within the combined maximum rate. The additional levy authorized as hereinbefore set forth shall be certified to the budget commission prior to the first Monday in August."

"LITTLE CICERO'S" HOLD ON LAW FORCES AIDES SLAYERS OF MELLETT

Joseph R. Roach, Clean-up Attorney, Charges Evidence That Would Send Several Men to Electric Chair is Hidden by Close Contact Between Authorities and Vice Lords.

BLACKMAIL PLOTS HAVE BROUGHT INTENDED RESULTS, PROBER CLAIMS

Patrick E. McDermott, Sought for Questioning in Connection With Murder of Crusading Editor, is Not Essential to Ultimate Solution of Crime, Chicagoan Tells Newspaper Man.

By PAUL E. BROKAW.

(Copyright, 1926, by the International News Service.)

CANTON, O., Aug. 14.—Absolute hold of Canton's "Little Cicero," on the public—and private—lives of the city and county officials here has halted the inquiry into the Don R. Mellett murder, Joseph R. Roach, national known clean up attorney, declared to the International News Service today.

Evidence that should send several men to the electric chair or that should at least result in their conviction of first degree murder in connection with the Mellett assassination, has been kept from the consideration of the proper investigating bodies because of the close contact between certain Stark county and Canton city authorities, with the lords of the "Jungle," he declared.

Past—and present—blackmail plots, on which Roach intimated he had definite evidence, which were sponsored by persons now under direct suspicion in connection with the assassination of the crusading editor, have brought their intend results.

The "intended results" of these alleged plots which were said to be directed against a person vitally interested in the investigation, were that the murder case should not reach a Stark county grand jury until publicity on the crime and murder itself had died a natural death, said Roach, in substance.

The "ivory handled" revolver of foreign manufacture, reported as having been used in the murder, played a most important part in the assassination, according to Roach, and its owner was today declared by the Chicago attorney as having participated in the crime.

"We are now mighty close to that revolver—the owner of which is known, who, according to evidence I have gleaned, was one of the triggermen," Roach stated.

"Evidence in my possession that should have been gathered and submitted to a special grand jury days ago by Stark county authorities remains untouched," Roach emphatically stated.

"Is Patrick E. McDermott, the man wanted for questioning in connection with this murder, essential to the ultimate solution?" he was asked.

"Absolutely not," Roach replied.

Roach Cannot Act.

"Would you be willing, if called, to go before a grand jury and reiterate the statements you have made and submit to the jurors the evidence you say you have gathered?" He was further questioned.

"Yes, answered the square-jawed man who convicted scores of Indiana officials on charges of law violation and bribery.

"Is there any way, in your capacity as advisory counsel to the acting chief of police, that would legally enable you to bring about the arrests of the

Mrs. Stockwell wrote to Judge Riddle in hopes that some record might be available as to the present whereabouts of Findley.

CANTON, O., Aug. 14.—Col. C. F. Bleum, personal investigator for Governor Vic Donahey in the Mellett murder inquiry, left here for Columbus today to report to the chief Ohio executive that an "official bloc" has been organized here and that it portends to build up a defense around those suspected in connection with the murder," it was learned from an authoritative source.

WOMAN LEAPS TO HER DEATH

In Ill Health, She Jumps From Eighth Floor.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—While her husband slept in an adjoining room today, Mrs. Maude Woods, 50, leaped from the window of their eighth floor apartment, and was killed instantly.

The husband, Arthur M. Woods, president of a storage warehouse company, found a hastily penned note, which read:

"My blessed husband:

"Forgive me for doing this terrible thing, but I am too sick and discouraged to carry on.

"MAUDE."

The dead woman had been suffering from a nervous breakdown for two years.

LAUNCH PROBE OF WRECK OF "MILLIONAIRE SPECIAL" ON LONG ISLAND ROAD IN WHICH SIX ARE KILLED AND 60 INJURED

RIVERHEAD, N. Y., Aug. 14.—An official inquiry was under way today of the wreck of the "Millionaire Special" on the Long Island railroad at Calverton, five miles east of here, resulting in six deaths and injuries to more than 60 persons.

Assistant District Attorney Alexander Blue, of Suffolk county, after a hasty examination of members of the crews immediately following the tragedy, said he believed a detective switch had caused the derailment of the speeding train with its 700 passengers.

Troops from Camp Upton and volunteer rescuers were searching this morning in the twisted debris for other dead and wounded. Three persons are still missing.

Locomotives Topple Over.

The "Millionaire Special," pride of the Long Island railroad, was the only train of that road to leave the Pennsylvania station in New York, due to disorganization of schedules by the storm. It had picked up the cars of another train, and due to the heavy passenger list of week-enders and commuters, was hauled by two locomotives.

As the train reached Calverton, traveling at a tremendous rate of speed, both locomotives leaped high in the air and toppled over beside the rails.

Both the fireman and engineer of the first locomotive were killed immediately, being buried underneath the twisting, hissing wreckage.

Dead and Injured.

The dead:

GEORGE A. SCHUFORD, Jr., 3, of Asheville, N. C.

DOROTHY LOUIS SCHUFORD, 1 year old, his sister.

HAROLD L. FISH, stockbroker, New York City.

WILLIAM SQUIRES, engineer, Greenport, N. Y.

JOHN MONTGOMERY, fireman, Greenport, N Y.

Mrs. GEORGE A. SCHUFORD, Asheville, N. C.

Among the injured were:

MRS. LAURA CONLEY, 12 Cumberland avenue, Asheville, N. C.

JOSEPH SWICK, 10326 106th street, Richmond, Hill, N. Y.

GRANVILLE HARTMAN, New York City.

Mrs. Schuford, the mother of the two children killed, died in Southampton hospital from internal injuries and shock. She was pinned in the wreckage more than five hours.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Angell, parents of Mrs. Schuford, and Mrs. Laura Conley, Mrs. Schuford's colored maid, were hospital patients today. All will recover, doctors said. The maid's foot was partially amputated.

Mrs. Schuford, who is the wife of an attorney in Asheville, did not once lose consciousness while pinned under the wreckage. She was kept in ignorance of the death of her children.

Crash Into Factory Building.

After jumping the tracks east of the Calverton station, the two engines bumped along on the ties for a short distance and then toppled over and crashed into a factory building alongside the track. A pullman car and a combination baggage and smoking car behind the engines also jumped the rails and fell across the tracks. The remainder of the train consisted of five passenger coaches.

Colonel M. G. Spink, of the 62nd coast artillery, brought 300 men from Centerville, five miles away, and plunged into the rescue work amid the hysterical screams of women passengers, and many children who were on the train. The passengers in the rear cars were only shaken up by the derailment, but from the forward cars came the screams and groans of the injured and dying. Three large searchlights were set up to furnish light for the rescue work.

Hurry calls for help were sent to Riverhead and Greenport, and ambulances and commandeered automobiles rushed the injured to hospitals.

A Roman Catholic priest who was aboard the train hastened in torn clothes from one to another of the injured and administered the last rites of their church to several of them.

CHAPTER FORTY-ONE.

Bee moved part way up the steps, then turned and watched Fred go. He swung around the corner without looking back. She stood for some time without moving. Then, distrait, she went into the vestibule. Louise had Delia's key; she'd have to ring to be let in. She looked at the row of mail-boxes in the wall, each with its push-button underneath and a name on a narrow bit of card. There it was, "Bradley." She lifted a hand toward the button. But instead of ringing she let her hand fall. Slowly she moved out of the vestibule, down the steps and on to the corner. At the drug store she drank a glass of malted milk; then she crossed the Square to the subway station on its curbed-in island, rode to Forty-second street and walked swiftly across to the public Library.

Attendants pointed the way to the newspaper room. That meeting with Fred must have taken place in April. About the middle of the month, she thought. The huge file was spread for her on a sloping desk. With an eagerness tinged with dread she turned the pages. Her quick eyes fell on this and that item she remembered. Crimes of violence, motor accidents, divorces — sprinkled everywhere, these, among the crowded columns of print; you saw so many such ugly items every morning that your sensibilities instinctively hardened and threw them off. The random nervous thought came that they were significant symptoms of a gravely disordered civilization. People didn't think, prosperous people. They didn't really think.

Her thoughts were darting this way and that. She knew she was strung up pretty high, but couldn't help that. Systematically, in an effort to direct her jerky brain into more orderly channels, she began with the headlines column by column and page by page. Finally, right on a front page, she found it: "Two Killed Near White Plains. Drunken Motorist Held." And so on. Yes, it was Fred. Curious. She dimly remembered having glanced at that item at the breakfast table one morning. It was familiar. But she hadn't happened on Fred's name. She took it in now more with her nerves than with her brain—"Dash it, I'm all nerves!"

There had been trouble first at a roadhouse. Fred, it was claimed, had attacked another guest. A man was with him, and two young women, said to be chorus girls. The proprietor stated that he had had to put them out. Apparently all four were drunk. They had had to carry one of the girls from the roadhouse to the car after dinner. Four people in that little roadster of his! Two in the rumble seat, doubtless, holding each other in while Fred hit it up sixty miles an hour. Apparently Fred had undertaken to race another car, and while racing had struck a third machine that was parked by the roadside in a dark spot. It was the man and girl in that third car who were killed. "In the early morning hours," read the story. "Hm!" mused Bee. "A little petting-party! The whole thing reads like 'The Dance of Death.' And yet I passed it over as commonplace the first time I saw it. Hm! Quite a world!"

She picked up her bag, mechanically powdered her nose and went out. Apparently what she wanted next was a telephone. She felt flushed and hot, and curiously excited and depressed at the same time. Her eyes didn't see much of all that passed on the street. She had a queer sense of being alone in a crowded world, of venturing more doggedly than daringly into paths which, though new, had yet been trodden by millions of other lonely feet before hers. In a Sixth Avenue drug store she found a telephone booth. She called Fred. The operator said, "They don't answer" and dropped her nickel. She felt excitedly forlorn, and walked as hard as she could up Sixth Avenue. The grinding roar of the elevated trains overhead gratified her deeply primitive mood. At his street in the Fifties she turned over to Broadway; and there from another booth called him again. He was in. Her heart leaped.

"Hello, Fred,' 'she heard herself saying. It's Bee."

"Oh, hello Bee."

That was all he said. He didn't help her. She waited, feeling a confused fool. An impulse came to slam the receiver back on the hook and walk away. But she couldn't do that. She felt tied, helpless—beaten, really. In a minute she'd be crying, if she wasn't careful.

"What are you doing, Fred?" That was banal enough. But it was all she could think of to say. She stamped a small foot impatiently. He couldn't hear that.

"Why, nothing. I just came in. Been out for a bite. Anything the matter?"

"No. I—".

"There's something I can do, Bee. What is it?"

"No, I just—" Her cheeks were flaming, but he couldn't see them. "I just happened to be up in your part of town—"

"Oh, I supposed you'd be down at the Peacock Feather."

"No, I didn't go there." She was on the verge of downright irrational anger.

"Where are you?"

"Over here at the corner of Broadway." There was a silence. "Darn it, Fred, why don't you ask me to come up and see you?"

"Oh, I couldn't do that very well, Bee. You see—well, I've just got a little bedroom here, and—"

She stamped again. He WAS Victorian! The old convention was to her the downright vulgarest of the hideously vulgar Puritan prohibitions.

He was speaking: "I'll come right down, Bee."

Tilden Facing Tests In Week-End Matches

Play Bill Johnston This Afternoon and Will Pit Skill Against Vin Richards Tomorrow.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The hour is at hand, the die is cast, the Rubicon is lapping gently in the foreground. For months, we have been regaled with opinions, pro and con, as to whether William T. Tilden soon will be no more, but the next 24 hours will remove the issue from the realm of theory to the certainty of fact. It will cease to be a question and become an answer.

This afternoon at Forest Hills, William will engage Bill Johnston in one of the singles matches of the east-west series. Tomorrow at Rye, he will face Vincent Richards in the final round of the southern New York state championship.

If Tilden can live this situation down, he must be accepted as the Tilden of old, the dazzling, daring, temptestuous, tireless and always temperamental master of the court play. If he can't he isn't.

May Not Be At His Best.

At his best, he could win from both. But the insinuation is general that he isn't at his best and never will be again and, in that case, he could lose to both with great ease. The only thing the matter with that argument is that Johnston has clearly indicated in his eastern play that he is at least a month away from top stride.

If he hasn't found more than a suggestion of his form overnight, then Tilden's chances of dropping both matches are at least one in five.

Richards, they say is the best bet. For two weeks he has been playing better tennis than any one on the American courts and his record this year is three straight victories over Tilden. This may mean anything or nothing, it being Tilden's custom to play indifferently until such time as the championships overtake him. However, all of them have been taking a fall out of the champion. Richard, Borotra, Lacoste, even Chapain, and that sort of thing wasn't being done in other seasons.

Of the two, the writer would pick Johnston as a superior bet over Richards, against Tilden. For one thing, Richards has won his share of matches from the champion this season and would seem to be overdue for a cropper. For another, if Richards was playing great tennis last week, it argues against him doing so tomorrow. The young man seldom holds his form over protracted periods.

As for Johnson, he seems to be able to raise his game at will when Tilden is on the opposite side of the net. His form has known its moments of depression during recent years, but seldom has this been true in a Tilden match.

That the latter is duly aware of this fact is proved by the length of today's match, which is to settled on a basis of the best three in five sets. The change from the two-in-three proposition was made at the suggestion of Tilden himself. He knows that the Davis cup committee will be watching the match and is taking no chances. He also knows that Johnston would have been champion in 1922 and again in 1925 if the nationals were conducted on a three-set basis.

Bill Tilden may be many things! but he's no man's sap.

Manush's speed afoot and Cobb's liking for his general style has prosaged big things for him ever since he joined the team. Fothergill, on the other hand, has had to battle gamely to prove that he is an A. 1. ball player—capable of holding down a regular berth.

AKRON, O., Aug. 14.—Is the picture of a bathing beauty, sans bathing suit, a work of art or an "indecent exposure?"

An Earl Carroll or Flo Ziegfeld is wanted in this city to settle this question.

The recent drive of police authorities to enforce the ordinance prohibiting sale or display of immoral literature or indecent pictures has been halted, owing to the failure of the guardians of the city's morals to agree on this aesthetic problem.

Declaraing that many magazines with nude art were being sold here, Councilman W. C. Criner, denounced the police department today for failure to enforce the law.

He was told that police have no authority to censor mazagines that seem objectionable to some people.

City fathers are now engaged in sending out S. O. S. calls for an Anthony Comstock to rally to their aid.

After All We Want to Be "Good Neighbors"

Is the spirit of neighborliness contagious? Well, we think it is. Since we began this little series of messages to you about it, we've had numerous letters on the subject.

For example we'll quote from one we received the other day. It was from one of our Neighbors, a Farmer of Columbiana County. He's in daily touch with our friends of the farms—talks with 'em over the fence. "Neighborliness," he wrote, "means more to our city than our undoubted industrial, commercial and transportation advantages. Promotion of a friendlier feeling can't help but rebound to the credit of the business men of the city and the farms. Your method must necessarily be far-reaching in scope and influence."

Neighborhood Propaganda Spreads fast and effectively.

Occurred to us to mention this in this, our last heart-to-heart talk but one, to you, our neighbors. Frankly, in our opinion, that brief note said a pageful.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

SATURDAY, AUGUST 14, 1926.

Peace In Pottery Industry

The National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, parental union of skilled ceramic workers in North American plants, and the United States Potters' association, the manufacturers' organization, have mutually agreed to renew the general ware agreement, with a few minor changes.

This was the cheerful news received by the East Liverpool district last night from Atlantic City, N. J., where conferees have been in a session since Wednesday. Details of the pact, which governs the wages and working conditions for more than 8,000 journeymen, are expected to be announced upon the return of the representatives to their homes.

Adjustment of differences, if any, means peace in the American ceramic industry until the fall of 1928, for the agreement will date from Oct. 1, when the present pact expires.

Thus amicable relations, which seldom have been broken, will continue between employer and employe in the clay-making industry. And with harmony prevailing, they can work to a common end—combat against the menace of foreign competition and the latter force's cheap labor and poor working conditions.

French Fury and Fact

From French utterances blaming America for the French financial crisis, it might be supposed that the French population was sunk in deep gloom.

A different picture is presented in a letter from an American correspondent. Writing from Paris recently, he says:

"Fench money has gone to smash. One might imagine that the people would indicate how they feel about it by their manners and the way they conduct themselves. They do not. Paris was ever gay. It is the same today when the franc is worth slightly over two cents as when it was worth 20 cents in purchasing power.

"The restaurants and cafes are crowded. In the more fashionable places it is difficult to procure a seat. They are dining out, as they dined out before 1914. Wine and champagne are everywhere, and the popping of corks is as frequent a sound as the chugging of automobiles, which seems eternal. Everyone rides in a taxi in Paris."

France suffered greatly in the war, observes an American editor, but France is not suffering today. Statesmen are harrassed by the financial problems confronting them, but the people are not.

"The French people are comfortable enough. The outcry against American covetousness does not come from a nation where unemploymet is prevalent or where babies are starving. There is no likelihood that any Frenchman will be hurt noticeably if the funding agreement signed by Berenger and Mellon is ratified. France's problem would of course be greatly simplified by the concellation of the Ameican debt, but the problem does not materially affect the health and happiness of the French people."

Nearly half that debt has been cancelled in the liberal terms made to France. Possibly America should be still more liberal, even though the debt principal proposed by Secretary Mellon represents hardly anything but post-war loans for rehabilitation and the price of the surplus American war supplies sold to France after the armistice. But America would be disposed to be more generous if France had ever paid anything on her American obligations, or shown any disposition to do so, and if the French people had been taxed as Americans have been.

The present violent protests look as if France has never intended to pay anything, and does not now intend to pay anything.

Motors And Midsummer

No wonder one of the Morgan financiers prophesised a big rise in General Motors stock, and exchange went wild over that issue. Later publication of its business for the first half of the year has shown profits nearly twice as large as for the same period last year—and those were large enough to suit most investors.

This particular automobile outfit, one of the greatest of "key corporations" in the United States, has been making money at the rate of about $35 a share per year on its common stock, and at the rate of $186,0000,000 a year applicable for dividends. While many people were shaking their heads dubiously over the state of the nation's business health, "G. M." was making about as much money in half a year as it had made in the whole of 1925.

Now, people don't buy autotomobiles and motor accessories in such quantities and at such prices as will pile up such huge profits unless people in general are feeling pretty comfortable financially. The boom in motor stock is a fortunate development, at a time usually devoted to midsummer blues. Except locally and in odd industries, there doesn't seem to be any of the "usual midsummer dullness" this year.

Anyway, this much has been done to discourage American gunmen—the importation of foreign revolvers in imitation of our own has been prohibited, and now even our most exclusive gunners will have to content themselves with native weapons.

America so far has avoided a dictatorship; still, we have a traffic cop on nearly every corner.

The Powerful Katrinka— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The metropolitan dancing world is divided into two classes. Those who "dawnce," and those who "den-s-e." The latter fill the increasing number of moderate priced dance halls that are a throwback to the days of the old Bowery "spiels."

Here may be found blondined Gerties and truck-driving Jakes trying to escape the dullness of a medicore world. For so much a dance, gentlemen are furnished ladies to whirl about to the crash of jazz. There is the gleam of red ties and gold teeth.

The girls are mostly those who toil by day in lofts and at the basement counters. They appear pathetically tired. But ladies must live! Always is the expected thrill of romance. A rich and lonely gentleman, seeking diversions, meeting the only girl!

Matronly hostesses are on hand to spread a veneer of respectability. "Miss La Mott, meet Mr. Bla." And they swing off on the polished space while she listens to the usual story and gives the usual response: "Pick me up at the corner. We close at one."

The dance halls are conducted by alert looking men, given to diamond studs, who impress one as being able to take care of themselves in emergency, but in reserve are a few second-rate pugilists with hefty wallops for the gentry who indulge "gate crashing."

Ostensibly only soft drinks are served, but as a rule each girl has a friend who knows a friend who can get a fellow to deliver a small bottle of gin, "but if the hostess saw it, I'd lose my job. She's awfully refined."

These dance halls range from these ensconced in former kitchens of Greenwich Village homes to those gaudily baroque affairs with mammoth electric signs on Broadway and other streets.

Exclusive establishments operating branches at Newport, Palm Beach and sundry tony watering places admit they are conducted almost invariably at a loss, so far as actual profits go, but the loss is more than covered by added prestige and permanent clientele.

Manhattan Island is widest at 89th stret. There was a civic ambition at one time when the city's growth was sweeping northward to make it the most expensive boulevard in town, with a three-lined mall in the center, but it never materialized. One of the tragedies of New York's growth is that it expanded too quickly to leave enduring spots of beauty in its wake.

There is an old banking house downtown that requires male employes to wear frock coats during working hours, and a swank tobacco shop on Fifth avenue has employes habited in white linen dusters, but the crowning touch is a ladies' shoe parlor on Broadway, catering to after-theatre trade, with clerks in Tuxedoes.

There is something engagingly frank in this sign in a smart jewelry shop: "Jewelry neither covers nor warms. It's only reason for being is beauty."

One of the best know hair shinglers was recently wanted at an early hour to clip a visiting princess. He had been at one hotel for ten years, but no one knew his last name. He had made his reputation on his first name and his last never mattered. I doubt if the most persistent diner-out knows teh last name of any head-waiter in town.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Irrigation Farmers Aided.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 14.—A new era has dawned for the settlers on reclaimed land under government irrigation projects in the far west, as a result of recent acts of congress, in the opinion of Dr. Elwood Mead, commissioner of the Bureau of Reclamation, who has returned from an extensive trip of inspection of these projects.

The basis of relief granted to settlers on the irrigated lands has been to relieve the successful settlers of payments for the share of the project costs which was expended on useless or partly useless land. Under the original law, every settler on an irrigation project had his property mortgaged, in effect, until the whole project cost was paid for. This plan was designed to protect the government, and might have been fair enough if every acre of land included in the project surveys and estimates had proved to be good, productive land.

This was the theory, the assumption being that once a water distribution project was completed, all of the land under the project would become very valuable and productive. A number of factors upset this theory in practice. Some of the land might be of stony or otherwise useless soil, some of it might be exposed to winds, frosts, or other conditions destructive to crops, and sometimes the projects did not actually develop enough water for all of the lands estimated as coming within their scope.

Also the cost of projects frequently mounted up higher than original estimates, and thereby placed a basic mortgage which when distributed over the whole area was too heavy for any but the most productive sections to bear.

All of these and other factors placed such a handicap on many projects that even the most thrifty and successful farmers came to feel that they were up against an impossible proposition if they had to bear the project costs for the worthless lands which had been included in the assessed areas.

After repeated appeals for relief, and several grants of temporary relief by congress for certain projects, President Harding shortly before his death asked Secretary of the Interior Work to give the whole question of settlement on irrigated lands a careful review with the idea of discovering what sort of permanent relief was practical and fair.

Fact Finding Commission.

For many years before he entered the White House President Harding had been a close student of land questions, especially interesting himself in the reclamation of the arid lands of the west. With returning soldiers of the World war clamoring for lands, and filing on every acre made available, the president wanted to find out if the government was really giving these soldiers a benefit when it allowed them a 60-day preference in filing on irrigated lands, or whether they were simply being allowed to go up against a hopelessly over-financed proposition, where they would expend their limited capital and then lose out in a heart-breaking task of home making on over-mortgaged farms.

The so-called "Fact Finding Commission," selected by Secretary Work, reported on measures of relief which would give the settlers on irrigated lands a real chance to establish themselves. This report was the basis of legislation by the last session of congress, and Dr. Mead, after some weeks of travel through the west, now reports to Secretary Work that the remedy is taking effect, and that the settlers are now most optimistic on practically every project, and are going forward with their work in confidence that they can meet their payments and will ultimately secure full title to their farms.

There is a great deal of unwritten history back of this four or five years of effort to straighten out the early mistakes of the government in carrying out its reclamation policy. Part of it ought to be told because it shows the late president in his true light on a subject which had his personal and thoughtful attention. It is pretty difficult to know which of the many things coming before a president get his personal judgment, and on which he is obliged to take the advice of associates. The reclamation question was to a great degree Mr. Harding's own problem, because he had long studied it.

During the campaign of 1920 a group of governors of western states made a pilgrimage to the famous front porch, at Marion, Ohio to see the candidate, Senator Harding. Many people thought this was just a campaign stunt. Actually it was a very definite move by the governors to find out whether the candidate actually was ready and willing to give real help in the irrigated land situation, and to aid the west in getting a reclamation law which would work. Mr. Harding made fairly definite promises to the governors, not merely because he wanted their campaign support, but because he knew of their problem and wanted to have it solved. He never forgot that promise.

West's Idea of a Good Bill.

The Western States Reclamation association, of which former Governor Davis, of Idaho, was then president, sponsored a reclamation bill which was introduced by Representative Smith, of Idaho, and by Senator McNary, of Oregon, in the two houses of congress. It was the west's idea of a workable bill, and many of the veterans' associations endorsed it. Possibly it went farther in expenditures than President Harding expected to go, but it had at least his partial endorsement. This bill could not muster a majority in the house of representatives, but Senator McNary, aided by other western leaders, could have passed it in the senate at almost any time.

Meanwhile the soldiers' bonus bill was pending, and the senators attached the McNary bill as an amendment to that, thereby making it rather dif-

HISTORY IN THE UN-MAKING.

There used to be a character in George Creel's town in Missouri, a transplanted Kentuckian, a self-appointed colonel and a veteran of Shelby's command, who was a born orator and an inspired romancer.

One sunny afternoon he was holding forth to an attentive and sympathetic audience upon the part he had played in the war between the States. It was rather to be inferred that he was one of the main reasons why the Confederancy endured, against odds, for four years. He progressed to where he was enriching history with an account of the first engagement in which he had participated.

"Gentlemen," he proclaimed, "envisage the scene. There we stand, a little group, armed for the most part with nondescript weapons, with flint lock muskets, with scythes, with axes, even with cudgels. We are underfed, half shod and ragged, yet inspired by the dauntless resolution and splendid valor which sustained the Southern heart. Over the slope and straight against our line come pouring the Northern hordes, those relentless invaders of our beloved Southland, lusty and strong and equipped with every appliance for conducting warfare that modern science can provide.

"We are outnumbered three to one; we are weak from hunger while they are lusty with bacon and beef. But none among us quails. A righteous belief in our sacred cause inspires us, every one. Each one feels himself a giant. And what is the result? Suddenly we leap forward in the charge. We grapple with them, we fight like demons. And, gentlemen, such is the impetuosity of our attack, such the ferocity of our blows that soon the blue lines break and in mad disorder routed the enemy flees, unable to face that irresistible torrent of Southern manhood."

From the audience spoke up a gray bearded listener.

"Say looky here, Kurnel," he said. "I was in that there fight myself and whut really happened wus that them plegged Yanks give us a fust rate lickin' and run us ten miles acrost country."

With a magnificent gesture of surrender the Colonel rose to his feet.

"Gentlemen," he said, "another instance of a good story spoiled by a damn eyewitness!"

Find Evidence of Battle Of Two Mastodons In Ohio

Volunteer Excavators Uncover Rib Bones of Prehistoric Specimen on Farm Near Johnstown, O.

JOHNSTOWN, O., Aug. 14.—Thousands of years ago two colossal mastodons engaged in a death struggle which ended fatally for each, both dying on the scene, now the farm of Friend Buck, about four miles from here.

Evidences of the titanic battle were being unearthed here today by a small army of volunteer excavators working under the supervision of archaeological experts from the Ohio state museum at Columbus.

Prof. H. R. Goodwin, in charge of disinterring the skeleton of a prehistoric specimen—believed to have been a dinosaur, yesterday found the rib bones of another mastodon in front of the skull of the giant being unearthed.

This evidence and the fact that the skull already dug up shows a huge cavity as if caused by the tusks of an adversary led him to express the belief that the bones of two animals will be found as they probably had died while locked together in battle.

That part of the skeleton now exposed to view shows it to be in an amazing state of preservation. Although one of the tusks was broken by a shovel, the other bones are being taken out intact. Experts believe that a complete skeleton will be found. Only a half dozen of these have ever been recovered.

TILSON LAUDS BUTLER AT NEW ENGLAND MEET

Loss of Senator Would be Blow to Administration.

Connecticut Congressman Urges Economy and Protective Tariff.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 14.—The loss of Senator William M. Butler, (R.), of Massachusetts, from the senate "would be a great blow to the administration and to the Republican party throughout the country," Representative John O. Tilson, of Connecticut, Republican floor leader of the house, declared here today at a Republican outing in honor of Butler.

"The distinguished senior senator from Massachusetts has stood at the right hand of the president, and has helped his administration in every possible way," Tilson declared. "He is a tower of strength for the administration and for the Republican party. I measure my words when I say that no man in the senate today is his superior in ability, in common sense or in capacity for serving the people of his state and nation.

"I cannot over-emphasize the importance of his re-election in November."

Tilson pleaded for maintenance of the "economy bulwark" in congress and for a firm stand to preserve the protective tariff system.

Butler, who is also chairman of the republican national committee, faces a stiff fight against former Senator David I. Walsh, Democratic candidate.

bandits being usually nervous. Be polite, hand over your valuables—that is better than being killed. Study the man's face carefully, that you may know him again if he should be caught." Almost anybody, at almost any time, may look down the barrel of a gun in these holdup days—so the advice is valuable.

OHIOAN KILLED BY POLICEMAN

Middletown Cop Fires as Youth Drives Away Auto.

MIDDLETOWN, O., Aug. 14.—Jess E. Yarber, 25, formerly of this city, but lately living in Cincinnati, was dead today as the result of being shot by American Rolling Mill Policeman Frank Cramer who claimed he caught Yarber and two companions in the act of driving away an automobile owned by James Greenfield, rolling mill employe.

The tragedy occurred just before midnight. Cramer had been watching the three men for 10 minutes, according to his story, before they entered Greenfield's car. As they started to drive it away, Cramer let go his artillery. The first bullet pierced the left door of the car and lodged in the cushion beneath Yarber. The next bullet crashed into Yarber's left side, going clear through the body and lodging under the skin on the right shoulder. Yarber crumpled over lifeless in the driver's seat.

Mrs. Clara Milton, of this city, mother of the victim of Cramer's shooting, said her boy had been staying with relatives at Cincinnati and had not been working the last few days. She saw him the last time she said in front of a picture show here Wednesday night.

the last Legislature, no municipality took advantage of it last year, and East Liverpool is the only city to do so this year. It is too late under this law for other municipalities to act in 1926.

Should the budget commission grant the request of the East Liverpool council, the millage will be taken from the school apportionment.

"It looks as if the council of East Liverpool has literally stolen the thunder of the East Liverpool board of education," County Auditor Walker said.

Does Golfer Hagen Fear Duncan? Asks London Standard

LONDON, Aug. 14.—"Does Hagen fear Duncan?"

The Evening Standard makes this query today, pointing out that Walter Hagen has not yet replied to a challenge from George Duncan for a 72-hole match for $2500 over the Pine Valley course in Philadelphia.

"After his attack on British golfers it is obvious that he can't afford to be beaten by one or he would be the laughing stock of the whole golfing word," said the Standard.

The Standard attacks Hagen as a schemer who is always striving to gain a moral advantage over his opponents by any form of tactics."

Duncan is one man that Hagen can not worry or upset, the newspaper says, adding:

"Hagen can only draw the princely salary of $30,000 a year for four months' work in Florida, as he retains his popularity. He may have concluded is would be unwise to risk his reputation being further damaged as it wuld be if Duncan beat him."

Faces Non-Support Charge.

Charles Casto was arrested yesterday afternoon in Third street on a charge of non-support and intoxication. He will be arraigned Monday before Judge Hanley in municipal court.

"Jungle" Halts Quiz

murderers of Mellett or that you could personally present the case to a grand jury?"

"None," Roach replied.

Confidence in Bernsteen.

It was pointed out to the Chicago investigator that Governor Vic Donahey has been quoted as saying that he was not empowered to act in the Mellett case except should a liquor conspiracy develop that would involve city or county officials.

"The governor will have plenty of legal room for definite action," Roach said.

Regarding the conference that Judge H. C. Pontius, former attorney of the slain publisher, and a "mystery witness" held with District Attorney A. E. Bernsteen, Cleveland, yesterday, Roach today declared that if "evidence revealed there is acted upon one of the most exceptional revelations in criminal history should be uncovered."

Roach repeatedly asserted his complete confidence in Bernsteen and his first assistant, Miles E. Evans, declaring that "they will see this case through to the bitter end, regardless of political and moneyed actions."

Sums Up Evidence.

In the brief, the evidence which Roach claimed to have gathered included, according to his statements today, the following alleged facts:

That several Canton policemen will eventually be linked with the actual crime.

That a Canton detective drove a liquor truck from Cleveland to Canton during the inception of the murder plot and that "Red" McDermott, alleged triggerman, accompanied the detective on the liquor truck trip here.

That despite the investigation carried on here during the past four weeks the lawless element has flaunted the flag of scorn in the face of the police department by continuing, unabated, its illegitimate practices.

That a huge whisky and narcotic bootlegging ring, evidently a part of a Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit and Chicago conspiracy, existed here, presumably under the protection of certain law enforcement agencies.

Detectives "Marking Time."

While Roach was making these startling disclosures, operatives under Ora Slater, Cincinnati detective, in charge of the investigation, were admittedly "marking time" until McDermott is captured.

County Prosecuetor C. B. McClintock was preparing to go before the grand jury which is scheduled to meet Monday. He has subpoenaed eight newspaper men who he hopes will throw some light on alleged affidavits which were claimed to have connected several prominent persons with purchases of whisky.

Seeks Special Prosecutor.

CANTON, O., Aug. 14. — County Prosecutor C. B. McClintock will ask Attorney General C. C. Crabbe for a special prosecutor to assist him in presenting the murder case of Don R. Mellett before a Stark county grand jury the week of August 30, it was declared today.

"If there is testimony available to show who killed Mellett we most certainly want it," McClintock asserted.

"The grand jury investigation will be wide open to investigators who claim to possess evidence in the crime," he added.

Federal, state, county and city investigators will undoubtedly be called before the jury, the prosecutor indicated.

Witnesses and persons who are claimed to have information involving the murders will be subpoenaed in wholesale lots, it was declared by those closest to the investigation.

The Canton Daily News says that it was reported today that Prosecutor McClintock was summoned Friday to the office of Attorney George H. Clark, former justice of the Ohio supreme court, who advised against federal participation in the probe.

The Daily News also says that "the pressure which is being brought to bear upon McClintock to induce him to regard lightly the evidence produced by Joseph R. Roach and others, was the subject of discussion Thursday at a conference in Cleveland between McClintock and A. E. Bernsteen, district attorney, it was learned today .

Three New Witnesses Held In Hall-Mills Murder Probe

They are Expected to Support Testimony of "Pig Woman" That She Saw Double Tragedy.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 14.—Three new witnesses were being held in leash by the state today to support the testimony of Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "pig woman," that she saw the murders of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills near New Brunswick. Willard Straub, 27, of New Brunswick, the state's "ace in the hole," was being held in default of $3,000 bail as a material witness. Four years' hiding of vital knowledge of the murders to prevent a young woman becoming involved in the inquiry is the role said to have been played by Straub. Straub and the young woman were said to have stood within 75 feet of the crab-apple tree under which the rector and his "soul mate" were shot to death.

The other witnesses are Mr. and Mrs. Morris Eisler of Highland Park, N. J., reported to have been motoring near the murder scene on the night of the double tragedy.

IN MEMORIAM.

In memory of Mrs. R. B. Stevenson, who died one year ago today:

One more loving friend has left us,
One with whom 'twas hard to part;
One whose life work is ended
With the warm love of her heart.

Far beyond that lovely shore,
Where loved ones have gone before,
And where God will always send
Those true and loving friends.

Mother's gone far across that shore
To a bright and shining land
Where the light will always shine
For to meet loved ones left behind.

Loving husband, loving children,
Look to God and try to smile;
Mother's only gone before you
For a very little while.

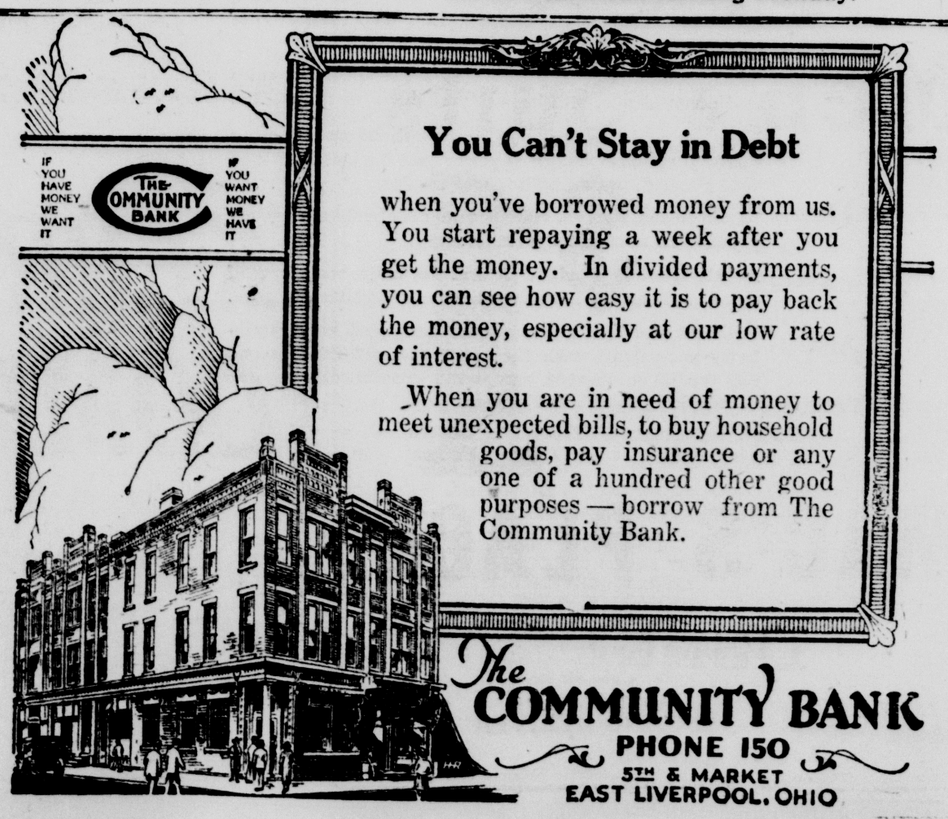

Mourning husband, mourning children, cease your weeping,
Lift you eyes above the sod.
Although mother's sleeping in her grave
And her spirit gone with God.

To seek her peaceful rest
She's left her husband, children, friends and all.
Who may by God be blessed.

AND CHILDREN.

LOSES LEG IN RAIL ACCIDENT

Crucible Steel Brakeman Falls Beneath Car.

Carl Morgan, 29, of this city, employed at the Pittsburgh Crucible Steel company, in Midland, yesterday underwent an operation for the amputation of his right leg as a result of injuries sustained in an accident in the railroad yards at the Midland plant.

Morgan, it is said, fell beneath a moving car after he had made a coupling, shortly before midnight Thursday and the wheels of the car passed over his right leg.

It was necessary to amputate the member above the knee in the Rochester, Pa., hospital, where he was taken immediately following the accident.

Mr. Morgan is married and has two children. John Morgan and Dewey Morgan, of this city, are brothers.

He has long been employed at the Midland plant as a brakeman.

BLASTING CREW WRECKS HOUSES

Between 40 and 50 lives were endangered at Alikanni yesterday when an overcharge of dynamite by workmen of the Steubenville-East Liverpool Traction Company, who are cutting a hill side, hurled stones weighing up to 25 pounds a distance of 300 yards. Stones of 25 pounds weight crashed through the sides of six houses, where people were sleeping and a seventh house was damaged.

When a second blast was put off residents got out rifles and revolvers, covering workmen until Sheriff William Allison and deputies could be summoned. Traction lines are buried 5 to 20 feet with the excavations and all cars were out of commission for the day. Twenty-five trunk lines of the Bell Telephone Company were ruined by the blast.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The high priced industrial and motor stocks continued without interruption the enthusiastic forward movement in prices which featured Friday's close. Under the lead of General Motors and United States Steel bullish forces marked up prices from 2 to 10 points in the first period today, after which the pace slackened somewhat and the volume of trading declined.

Strength in General Motors was attributed to the very favorable impression created by the awarding of the cash dividend this quarter on the additional stock given as a stock dividend. After a split opening at 210 to 211½ the stock advanced vigorously to 214. Hudson and Chrysler were also strong and active.

Being under similar control, United States Steel will doubtless follow the melon—cutting example set by General Motors, according to the boosters of steel stock in the financial district. Enthusiastic buying of that stock today lifted the price to above 155, only fractionally below the record price for all time. The independent steels continued to attract good buying as also did the equipments and the coppers, American smelting rising buoyantly to 150, the highest price of the year.

Railroad stocks continued to hold their gains, but trading in that section of the market fell off appreciably, and the rails were not able to furnish the aggressive leadership which characterized them in Friday's session. Chesapeake and Ohio was well bought around 147.

There were no disquieting week-end developments and nothing to detract from the splendid performance of the country's industrial and commercial enterprises. Wall street approves heartily of the advance in the rediscount rate of the reserve bank, reflecting as it does need for funds in the expanding business of the nation. Commodity markets were slightly unsettled at the week-end.

City League Leaders' Winning Streak Checked By Laughlin

Ashe, Six-Foot Slab Star, Allows Chester Outfit Two Safeties

Singles by Evans and Mike Cebula, the Latter Filling in as Pinch Hitter, are Only Bingles Alloted Second Half Leaders.

GAUNT of frame and elongated of form, Twirler Ashe, several inches over six feet, officiating for Laughlin last night, turned back the Chester pace makers of the City league at Smith field, 3 to 1. He veritably mowed down the opposition, helpless before his speed. He allowed but two bingles during the six inning struggle. Evans, at the first of the game, reached first base on a rap over that station and M. Cebula, pinch swatting for Greene in the final period of play, singled sharply to middle for the brace of bingles garnered by the league leaders.

Barring the first inning when six men faced him he all but retired the opposition in order. He walked P. Bennett with two out in the second and then fanned Evans. In the third, fourth and fifth the Chesterites went out in one, two, three fashion.

Greene was up first in the sixth. "Mike" was called upon by Manager Riley to lead the team out of its place in the background. And the hefty twirler made good by landing on the ball for a clean single to middle-left. Then P. Cebula essayed to send Wyant, running for Mike, around. He struck out. As Pete whiffed hard at the ball, the bat slipped from his hands and landed at the Chester bench. The players fell backward in a heap but no one was injured.

Wilde, next up, was thrown out at first by Finley while the latter gathered in L. McMath's fly, ending the game.

Ashe fanned five, walked two and hit one during the contest. During the entire game he was cheered by the big Laughlin contingent.

Stoffel, permitting a pass and two singles started badly in the second as a double and an error gave the potters another run. When he allowed Parsons to double again, he was supplanted by P. Bennett.

Babb, facing Bennett first, reached the initial corner safely as P. Cebula drew Heckathorne off the bag. The bases were clogged and one out.

But Bennett here struck out Finley. Then Herbert rapped easily to Greene, who stepped on third and a tough situation had been capably handled.

Thereafter, except in the fifth when two hits were made off him, both doubles, he retired the visitors in order. The first of these doubles went for naught since Babb, who made it, was caught at third as he tried to stretch the blow into a triple.

In the sixth Bennett fanned Bubin, Aufderheide and Hunselman consecutively. In all, he fanned eight and walked none. Though handicapped, by a two run lead he was practically as effective as Ashe.

Despite the fact that he fanned with the bases loaded, Finley, on two other occasions he batted, connected safely and led both teams in clubbing.

The defeat was the second sustained by Chester this half, the first having been administered by Wellsville early in July. Since then they had won regularly.

Babb walked in the first after Parsons had gone out, P. Cebula to Heckathorne. Finley singled as did Herbert, Babb scoring and Finley reaching third from where he counted as W. Watson was retired. Greene to Heckathorne. Herbert stole second, but Bubin fanned.

Evans, singling in the first, stole third after Greene was hit and finished on Hunselman's over-throw to Herbert. P. Cebula flew to Evans, Greene reaching third. Wilde fanned, but Babb, playing in, was not on the bag when Hunselman threw. The former, however, assisted back to Hunselman in time to retire Greeen at the plate. Wilde stole second and reached third on Ashe's wild throw to second. L. McMath walked and purloined the keystone sack, whereupon F. Marshall fanned.

Aufderheide doubled to right in the second. Hunselman, sacrificing, was safe as L. McMath dropped Babb's assist, enabling Aufderheide to county. Ashe drove to Greene, who threw out Hunselman at the plate. Parsons doubled. B. Bennett then supplanted Stoffel. P. Cebula threw wild to first on Babb's rap. Finley fanned. Herbert drove to Greene, who stepped on third, retiring Parsons.

THREE PIRATE PLAYERS FIRED

Bigbee, Adams Released; Ask Waivers on Carey.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 14.—In one of the most drastic disciplinary steps ever taken by a major league baseball club management, Max Carey, field captain of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and Babe Adams and Carson Bigbee, veteran team-mates today stood permanently lost to the team.

Carey was indefinitely suspended without pay and notified that waivers had been asked upon his services, and his release will follow as soon as the stipulated release period has expired.

Adams and Bigbee were given unconditional releases.

The punishments were announced by Sam Dreyfuss, treasurer and nominal head of the Pirates during the absence of Barney Dreyfuss, owner, following revelations that the trio had asked that Fred Clarke, trainer and assistant manager, be barred from the players' bench.

On Carey's release he will go to the team lowest in standing in the league which may claim him, according to waiver rules.

First intimation that dissension was brewing in the world's champions' ranks came yesterday when the vanguard of the team returned from its eastern trip and it was learned that Carey, Bigbee and Adams had circulated a petition asking that Clarke be kept off the bench for the good of the team.

Traynor Named Captain.

Dreyfuss, Manager Bill McKechnie and Clarke were in conference most of the day, and when they emerged from Dreyfuss' office at Forbes Field a telegraphic summons was sent to other members of the team ordering them to report at the field upon their arrival.

Following the meeting of the players with club officials, Dreyfuss made the startling announcement affecting the three vetweran players. "Pie" Traynor was appointed field captain to succeed Carey.

Notwithstanding the cry that went up from fans and baseball experts that such dractic disruption of the Pirate ranks at this critical stage of the National league pennant race might result disastrously for the team's chances of copping their second consecutive flag, the players took another attitude.

"Watch the team buckle down now that all players have awakened to the fact that their personal popularity alone does not secure their jobs," one player said.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON.

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

One of the reasons for a quick, jerky swing is that the player feels a lack of confidence and is unconsciously willing to get his swing over with as quickly as possible. The finest cure I know of for this lack of confidence, which constitutes a terrible mental hazard in golf, is to slow up the swing. Practice slow swings, and then practice them some more. Determine that it will be impossible for you to make your swing to slowly. And as the swing slows down your confidence with it will gradually rise. This happens because the slow swing will give up an increasing command over the club—it will develop automatically. The worst hazards in golf are the mental hazards. The player must always be on guard against them.

Reserves Cop Clash At Dixonville, 4-2; Kirkwood Has Homer

The Chester Reserves trimmed Dixonville last night at Dixonville, 4 to 2.

First Baseman Kirkwood's home run in the second started a batting rally that practically cinched the game for Chester.

The Reserves announced today that Frank Mellott, old time baseballer, will take over the managerial reins of the club.

The Reserves will play Dixonville Tuesday night at Chester; the Knights of Columbus Wednesday at Chester; and Smiths Ferry on Friday at Chester.

Each season, too, has been someone pointed to take Cobb's job in center to fill his place in the Tiger outfield.

Myers, Shoulder Injured, Back Home

WITH his right shoulder bothering him no little as a result of an injury earlier in the season, Harry "Dutch" Myers, Toledo American association outfielder, is taking a much needed rest at his home in Kensington, and at the same time, awaiting the outcome of his controversy with Casey Stengel, the Mudhens' manager.

Myers played a regular outfield berth with Toledo during the early stages of the season until he injured his shoulder. After that he filled in in pinch roles pending a recovery. But the shoulder became so troublesome that Myers found it difficult to swing a bat and some time ago in Minneapolis he left the club and went home.

Stengel, to put it mildly, didn't approve of Myers' leaving and now objects to paying him back wages. Myers has taken the case up with Landis.

MAY SET NEW RECORD.

ARMY and Navy football officials who at first objected to staging the annual Cadet-Midshipman gridiron frolic at Chicago this year may not regret the move as greatly as they thought they might.

It is estimated that the contest will realize receipts from admission amounting to about $700,000, which would be $200,000 more than that received at a game between California and Stanford, which had been the highest received at an intercollegiate football game.

The seating capacity of the stadium is 100,000. The 40,000 tickets to be held by the Chicago officials will bring $5, $10 and $20 each, the most of them going at the medium figure. It is expected that the boxes will bring $70,000 and the 60,000 tickets of the Army and the Navy will be sold at $3.50 each.

WILL PLAY SUZANNE.

KIRK REID, of Cleveland, Ohio state singles champion, is busily engaged these days in whipping his best shots into shape.

For Kirk will have the honor of playing Suzanne Lenglen, famous French star and world's champion, who has decided to turn professional, in an exhibition match at Cleveland Public Hall directly after her arrival in this country for a professional tour.

MAKES REAL CATCH.

ALL Izaak Waltons are not men. The fair sex has shown its prowess in a varied assortment of sports and angling is not the least of these.

To prove this there is on display in a downtown store a mounted 17½ pound beauty snared by Mrs. O. E. Greenawalt, of this city, out of the depths of Turtle Lake, Ontario. The fish, a deep water trout, was caught several weeks ago while Mr. and Mrs. Greenawalt were vacationing in the Dominion. It was mounted there and arrived here but a few days ago.

The trout gave Mrs. Greenawalt a battle. A vicious tug stripped her reel and then the unwilling prisoner ducked under the boat and broke the pole. His captor seized the line and finally pulled him into the boat.

Dempsey's Nose O. K.

IT SOILETH not; neither doth it bend—referring to Jack Dempsey's synthetic nose, which, according to Dr. W. E. Ballsinger, the plastic surgeon, is one of the classiest hand made noses in existence.

Dr. Ballsinger makes the statement as he casts verbal brickbats at one Dr. C. Peoria, of Vienna, who makes disparaging remarks to the effect that hot weather will wilt and in other ways misuse the champion's cherished organ of smell.

"Doc" Ballsinger disclaims the use of paraffine in correcting Jack's nose and points out that if ivory were used, as the Vienna doctor suggests, it would be dangerous. A blow, he says, might drive the ivory wedge into the brain.

"Fibro-elastic cartilage from behind the ear was used in the Dempsey operation and the champion's nose is now 25 or 30 per cent stronger than it was before," says Ballsinger.

Ten New Brunswick Tables Installed at American Pool Room

Announcement of the installation of 10 new Brunswick tables, in connection with a remodeling plan, was announced today by the Ganas Brothers, proprietors of the American pool room.

The American pool room has been in operation 12 years in East Sixth street. The interior of the parlors is being completely remodeled and eight new pool and two billiard tables are being installed, together with accessory equipment such as new cues, pool and billiard balls, etc.

The four bowling alleys also are being renovated and with the acquisition of new pins and balls will be ready for the opening of the season about September 1.

A Grand Prix automobile race, the first of its kind in England, will be held at the Brooklands track on August 2.

GOOD BOUTS ON ZILL'S CARD

Young Tommy Crowley to Take on Stablemate.

On August 17, at Idora Park, Youngstown, Johnny "Kid" Roberts, the Huntington, W. Va., "Icicle," will swap punches with George Harris, the Niles blond, in Matchmaker Al Zill's main bout, but the most interesting announcement to a number of East Liverpool fight fans is that Tommy Crowley, Pittsburgh speed merchant, will tangle hooks with Dick McDonie.

McDonie and Crowley are from the same stable and both lads belong to Hub Perdue, but friendship between them ceases the minute they step into the ring.

Crowley is well liked here by the fans who have seen him in action, his latest fistic exploits having been the whippings he handed Jimmy Moore, one of Johnny Kilbane's boys. He knocked Moore out in the third round of their preliminary to the Pete Latzo fight at Steubenville and stopped him again recently at Johnny Byers' Mingo arena.

The Roberts-Harris scrap is the only natural left for Zill while he is still running popular priced affairs. Both were winners on their last appearances in Youngstown, Harris trimming Maglione, of Akron, and Roberts handing George Meenahan a fine lacing.

These two bouts will be supported by two well-balanced prelims, Zill announces. Russ Parsons, of Hutington, W. Va., will meet Jack Brady, of Pittsburgh, at 195 pounds, in the six-round opener. A couple of featherweights are being booked for the other six-rounder.

New York Stars On Program At Ceramic Next Week

Feature Acts From Hip! Hip! Hooray! and Greenwich Village Follies Will Appear With First-run Pictures.

Stars from two New York productions will be seen at the Ceramic theatre next week as feature attractions in connection with special motion programs.

Topping the cinema program for the first three days, which is headed by Richard Dix in his latest screen success, "Say It Again," will be Owen Tiffany, one of the outstanding members of the cast of "Hip! Hip! Hooray!" the Dillingham musical production which broken all records at the New York Hippodrome. Tiffany is recognized as the cleverest of eccentric dancing comedians.

Tex Morrissey and partner—two girls—will share headline honors with Tiffany. They present a novelty mule act, featuring singing and dancing.

Fiffany and Tex Morrissey and partner, booked through the Spizzi agency, are now making a tour of the country's biggest theatres.

Barnum and Bailey, a two-man, black face, comedy, harmony team, for several years with the Greenwich Village Follies, will present the vaudeville feature during the second half of the week.

The six-day program is one of the best yet engaged by the Ceramic.

Twin Babies Born To Champ Divers Of Olympic Games

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.— America's chances in future olympiads were brighter today as a result of the birth of twin babies, a boy and a girl, to Betty Becker Pinkston, Olympic champion diver of 1924, and Clarence Pinkston, champion diver of the 1920 Olympic games.

Pinkston, five times national champion, met and won Miss Becker, former Atlantic City girl, while they were returning from the Paris olympiad.

LOIS MORAN AT AMERICAN

"The Reckless Lady" is Screen Offering for Three Days.

Lois Moran, the "wonder actress," is conceded by all critics to be on the high road of film success although she has just completed her third picture and hardly completed her sixteenth year.

Miss Moran's latest screen vehicle is "The Reckless Lady," from the novel by Sir Philip Gibbs, which comes Monday to the American theatre. In the featured cast are Ben Lyon, Belle Bennett, James Kirkwood, Lowell Sherman and Charlies Murray.

The little actress was discovered by an American film producer in Paris, although she is an American. Her first two pictures were such instantaneous successes that she is now approaching the threshold of stardom. She has appeared in "Stella Dallas," Richard Barthelmess' "Just Suppose," and now in "The Reckless Lady," a Robert Kane production for First National.

Miss Moran is the distinct opposite of the flapper type. Her hair is unbobbed. She is reserved in manner, but her beautiful face is a remarkable study. The ease and clarity of her expressions are almost breath-taking. And she has a swetness and wistful fragrance about her that is utterly captivating.

William Lodge's orchestra will feature special music during the three-day run of "The Reckless Lady."

RICHARD DIX IN FILM HIT

"Say It Again," Another Success, at Ceramic.

The third Richard Dix success in a row is a record to be proud of. Yet, that is just what Director Gregory La Cava has achieved. Starting with "Womanhandled," his name on the billing became something to think about. "Let's Get Married" proved the first film was not just a "flash in the pan." Now—"Say It Again," Richard's third Paramount comedy to be directed by La Cava, which comes to the Ceramic theatre on Monday, definitely proves him to be no longer a "comer" but instead, one who is very much "arrived."

Mr. La Cava has had an unusual career. He started out to be a painter, later became a newspaper cartoonist, and then made animated cartoons for movies.

Little more than a year ago, La Cava joined Paramount. He helped on "Too Many Kisses," directed scenes for Dix's, "The Shock Punch" on the steel framework of the unfinished New York Telephone company building, and took charge of the racing scenes in "The Lucky Devil."

THIEVES GET DURANT JEWELS

Attempt Made to Keep Robbery Secret in Deal, N. J.

DEAL, N. J., Aug. 14.—Seventy-five thousand dollars in jewels were stolen from the home of William C. Durant, automobile manufacturer and stock market operator, it was learned today.

Extraordinary precautions were taken by both Durant and the authorities to keep the loss secret, even after an arrest had been made in the case. The jewels were those of Mrs. Durant and were taken from a safe in the Durant home here, on August 1, while Mr. and Mrs. Durant were away.

John Morciscak, who was a butler for Durant until a few months ago, was arrested and held in jail at Freehold on an open charge. John J. Quinn, prosecuter of Monmouth county, refused to tell Morciscak's lawyer, Andrew Stokes, why the latter was being questioned about a burglary. Stokes said he would take the case into court unless a specific charge was made against the butler and Morciscak was released.

Detectives are working on the case.

Alex Steinfeld Makes First Visit Here in 20 Years

Alexander Steinfeld, of Rochester, N. Y., for the past 20 years with the Michael Stern Co., is making his first visit to the city in that period of time. He is the guest of his brother, Louis Steinfeld, of College street.

Mr. Steinfeld remembers vividly an experience that occurred on the occasion of his visit here a score of years ago. While standing in front of the Review-Tribune office, then known as the News Review, a baby carriage, with a mite of a youngster in it, started down the pavement, ran off the curb and headed on to the stret car tracks in the path of an approaching car. Mr. Steinfeld ran to the carriage, stopped it and pulled the infant to safety.

ficult for the house to reject it. This clever maneuver might have succeeded had not President Harding been determined to veto the bonus bill. He realized that to veto the bill with the McNary reclamation amendment in it would look like a breach of faith with the western governors, and right here he began pulling wires as only an experienced legislator could pull them, without having presidential influence appear in the matter.

As a result the bill went to conference with the senate standing firm for the McNary amendment, but it came out of conference with the McNary amendment removed. Somewhere during that senate-house conference committee's work, the reclamation bill had been painlessly extracted from the soldiers' bonus bill. President Harding then vetoed the bonus, and left the responsibility for not passing the McNary act on the house of representatives.

Failure by congress to accept that act had much to do with the president's appeal to Secretary Work to develop a measure which would relieve the settlers on irrigated lands from unfair obligations. Dr. Work accomplished this through the Fact Finding Commission, and thus the efforts of President Harding have finally come to what seems like a successful fruition. The western states have not yet secured the whole of the new reclamation bill proposed by Senator McNary and his associates, but they have got as much as President Harding could get for them.

Under Dr. Mead's direction, and aided by the new legislation, the irrigation projects are being treated as separate propositions, and agreements are being worked out one by one whereby the settlers are getting a square deal, and possibilities of development of the lands hitherto considered useless on these projects are opening up. There will probably be individual failures by farmers here and there, but the threatened wholesale wiping out of the holdings of large groups has probably been prevented. And the settlers are much more optimtistic than they have been for several years.

DR. However, those foolish enough to drink bootleg whisky habitually would probably not live long anyhow.

SCIENTISTS gathered at Williamstown possess the blessed gift of hope. They say chemistry will end all our worries, including food problems. Power locked up in the revolving electrons will run all our machinery, no need or coal, oil or water power. Artificial rubber, better than the genuine, will be made from petroleum. Artificial stone for buildings will take the place of brick shells on buildings.

THE best of it is that all this, and much more, is true. The real wealth of the human race is not in oceans, in fertile soil or even in sunlight. It is principally in the brain of man.

MANY gentlemen, young and old, not interested in the proceedings of the scientific gathering at Oxford university, are intensely interested in the coming prize fight between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney. Some preparing to bet their money on Mr. Dempsey may be interested in the advice of one who knows about fighters and their mental caliber. He says:

"Be careful how you bet on a man that is worried, when he has a limited intellect, not calculated to endure worry."

Dempsey is worried. He quarreled with his manager, who threatens to tie up the receipts of his next fight. He hasn't fought for three years and can only guess whether he is as good as ever. Be careful how you bet on him that is worried.

"IF A holdup man faces you with his automatic," says a wise detective, 'stick 'em up' promptly, when he tells you to. Don't seem nervous, or he will get nervous and perhaps shoot.

SEIZE POUCH OF REGISTERED LETTERS, THEN FLEE IN AUTO

Bind Messenger and Clerk Before Looting Car.

WYOMING ROBBERY

Tamper With Semaphore Signals to Stop Flyer.

RAWLINS, Wyo., Aug. 14.—Two heavily armed bandits early today held up Union Pacific train No. 5, fast west bound mail train, 40 miles west of here, bound and gagged a clerk and messenger in the mail car, emptied the contents of a registered mail pouch into a bag, jumped from the train which they had stopped on signal and fled.

Armed posses are scouring the rugged countryside for the train robbers, who are believed to have escaped in a waiting automobile.

Loot Runs Into Thousands.

No estimate of the loss is available, but officials expressed the belief that it would run into the thousand of dollars.

According to Sheriff Austin of Carbon county, the two men had evidently tampered with the semaphore signals in such a manner as to turn the "red" light on, thus stopping the train, enabling them to board it.

They entered the mail car by breaking a window, bound and gagged the clerk and messenger, and hastily turned the contents of the registered pouch into their own sack.

The hold-up occurred shortly after 2 o'clock this morning.

Bandits Grab $200,000 Diamonds

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 14.—Police today had no clue to the two bandits who grabbed the jewel case containing unset diamonds valued at $200,000 and slugged Sol Roseman, a salesman for the firm of A. Moseman and company, New York city, as Roseman alighted from a taxicab at the Great Northern station here last night.

Roseman had left his hotel to board a train for Grand Forks, N. D., accompanied by O. R. Goodman of Chicago, also a jewelry salesman. When they arrived at the railroad station two men stepped up to the taxicab and as the jewelry salesman alighted, the jewel case was snatched from Roseman. When Rosemen attempted to offer resistance, a revolver was pressed against his body. A second bandit then slugged Roseman into unconsciousness. The full amount of insurance is carried on the diamonds.

SOLONS STEAL "THUNDER" OF SCHOOL BOARD

Apply to Budget Commission for Increased Levy.

RELIEF ACT MOVE

Millage Will be Taken From Education Apportionment.

The city council has literally stolen the "thunder" of the East Liverpool board of education in an effort to obtain additional funds for operating expenses, judging from a resolution passed July 15, last, and filed today in County Auditor Elmer E. Walker's office in Lisbon.

The resolution provides for an increased levy, and should it be granted the funds obtained by the municipality will be taken from the present levy of the board of education. However, it is pointed out that the board of education can secure additional funds by seeking an extra levy at the November election.

Council took advantage of the provisions of Section 5649-5f which provides:

"The taxing authorities of any municipality may by resolution adopted by a two-thirds vote levy annually for the general purposes of the municipality in addition to the levy for current expenses within the 10-mill limitation prescribed by the General Code of the tax rate, a tax not exceeding three and a half mills upon each dollar of the taxable property of such municipality. The budget commission shall not reduce the total levies for current expenses within the combined maximum rate. The additional levy authorized as hereinbefore set forth shall be certified to the budget commission prior to the first Monday in August."

"LITTLE CICERO'S" HOLD ON LAW FORCES AIDES SLAYERS OF MELLETT

Joseph R. Roach, Clean-up Attorney, Charges Evidence That Would Send Several Men to Electric Chair is Hidden by Close Contact Between Authorities and Vice Lords.

BLACKMAIL PLOTS HAVE BROUGHT INTENDED RESULTS, PROBER CLAIMS

Patrick E. McDermott, Sought for Questioning in Connection With Murder of Crusading Editor, is Not Essential to Ultimate Solution of Crime, Chicagoan Tells Newspaper Man.

By PAUL E. BROKAW.

(Copyright, 1926, by the International News Service.)

CANTON, O., Aug. 14.—Absolute hold of Canton's "Little Cicero," on the public—and private—lives of the city and county officials here has halted the inquiry into the Don R. Mellett murder, Joseph R. Roach, national known clean up attorney, declared to the International News Service today.

Evidence that should send several men to the electric chair or that should at least result in their conviction of first degree murder in connection with the Mellett assassination, has been kept from the consideration of the proper investigating bodies because of the close contact between certain Stark county and Canton city authorities, with the lords of the "Jungle," he declared.

Past—and present—blackmail plots, on which Roach intimated he had definite evidence, which were sponsored by persons now under direct suspicion in connection with the assassination of the crusading editor, have brought their intend results.

The "intended results" of these alleged plots which were said to be directed against a person vitally interested in the investigation, were that the murder case should not reach a Stark county grand jury until publicity on the crime and murder itself had died a natural death, said Roach, in substance.

The "ivory handled" revolver of foreign manufacture, reported as having been used in the murder, played a most important part in the assassination, according to Roach, and its owner was today declared by the Chicago attorney as having participated in the crime.

"We are now mighty close to that revolver—the owner of which is known, who, according to evidence I have gleaned, was one of the triggermen," Roach stated.

"Evidence in my possession that should have been gathered and submitted to a special grand jury days ago by Stark county authorities remains untouched," Roach emphatically stated.

"Is Patrick E. McDermott, the man wanted for questioning in connection with this murder, essential to the ultimate solution?" he was asked.

"Absolutely not," Roach replied.

Roach Cannot Act.

"Would you be willing, if called, to go before a grand jury and reiterate the statements you have made and submit to the jurors the evidence you say you have gathered?" He was further questioned.

"Yes, answered the square-jawed man who convicted scores of Indiana officials on charges of law violation and bribery.

"Is there any way, in your capacity as advisory counsel to the acting chief of police, that would legally enable you to bring about the arrests of the

Columbiana county officials have been asked to assist in locating George Findley, aged about 40, a former resident of East Palestine.

The request, addressed to Probate Judge Lodge Riddle, came from Mrs. F. H. Stockwell, 26 Chapman street, Zanesville, who said that relatives of Findley wanted "to get in touch with him on account of serious sickness in the old home."

Mrs. Stockwell wrote to Judge Riddle in hopes that some record might be available as to the present whereabouts of Findley.

Donahey Will be Told of "Official Bloc" in Canton

CANTON, O., Aug. 14.—Col. C. F. Bleum, personal investigator for Governor Vic Donahey in the Mellett murder inquiry, left here for Columbus today to report to the chief Ohio executive that an "official bloc" has been organized here and that it portends to build up a defense around those suspected in connection with the murder," it was learned from an authoritative source.

WOMAN LEAPS TO HER DEATH

In Ill Health, She Jumps From Eighth Floor.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—While her husband slept in an adjoining room today, Mrs. Maude Woods, 50, leaped from the window of their eighth floor apartment, and was killed instantly.

The husband, Arthur M. Woods, president of a storage warehouse company, found a hastily penned note, which read:

"My blessed husband:

"Forgive me for doing this terrible thing, but I am too sick and discouraged to carry on.

"MAUDE."

The dead woman had been suffering from a nervous breakdown for two years.

LAUNCH PROBE OF WRECK OF "MILLIONAIRE SPECIAL" ON LONG ISLAND ROAD IN WHICH SIX ARE KILLED AND 60 INJURED

RIVERHEAD, N. Y., Aug. 14.—An official inquiry was under way today of the wreck of the "Millionaire Special" on the Long Island railroad at Calverton, five miles east of here, resulting in six deaths and injuries to more than 60 persons.

Assistant District Attorney Alexander Blue, of Suffolk county, after a hasty examination of members of the crews immediately following the tragedy, said he believed a defective switch had caused the derailment of the speeding train with its 700 passengers.

Troops from Camp Upton and volunteer rescuers were searching this morning in the twisted debris for other dead and wounded. Three persons are still missing.

Locomotives Topple Over.

The "Millionaire Special," pride of the Long Island railroad, was the only train of that road to leave the Pennsylvania station in New York, due to disorganization of schedules by the storm. It had picked up the cars of another train, and due to the heavy passenger list of week-enders and commuters, was hauled by two locomotives.

As the train reached Calverton, traveling at a tremendous rate of speed, both locomotives leaped high in the air and toppled over beside the rails.

Both the fireman and engineer of the first locomotive were killed immediately, being buried underneath the twisting, hissing wreckage.

Dead and Injured.

The dead:

GEORGE A. SCHUFORD, Jr., 3, of Asheville, N. C.

DOROTHY LOUIS SCHUFORD, 1 year old, his sister.

HAROLD L. FISH, stockbroker, New York City.

WILLIAM SQUIRES, engineer, Greenport, N. Y.

JOHN MONTGOMERY, fireman, Greenport, N. Y.

Mrs. GEORGE A. SCHUFORD, Asheville, N. C.

Among the injured were:

MRS. LAURA CONLEY, 12 Cumberland avenue, Asheville, N. C.

JOSEPH SWICK, 10326 106th street, Richmond, Hill, N. Y.

GRANVILLE HARTMAN, New York City.

Mrs. Schuford, the mother of the two children killed, died in Southampton hospital from internal injuries and shock. She was pinned in the wreckage more than five hours.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Angell, parents of Mrs. Schuford, and Mrs. Laura Conley, Mrs. Schuford's colored maid, were hospital patients today. All will recover, doctors said. The maid's foot was partially amputated.

Mrs. Schuford, who is the wife of an attorney in Asheville, did not once lose consciousness while pinned under the wreckage. She was kept in ignorance of the death of her children.

Crash Into Factory Building.

After jumping the tracks east of the Calverton station, the two engines bumped along on the ties for a short distance and then toppled over and crashed into a factory building alongside the track. A pullman car and a combination baggage and smoking car behind the engines also jumped the rails and fell across the tracks. The remainder of the train consisted of five passenger coaches.

Colonel M. G. Spink, of the 62nd coast artillery, brought 300 men from Centerville, five miles away, and plunged into the rescue work amid the hysterical screams of women passengers, and many children who were on the train. The passengers in the rear cars were only shaken up by the derailment, but from the forward cars came the screams and groans of the injured and dying. Three large searchlights were set up to furnish light for the rescue work.

Hurry calls for help were sent to Riverhead and Greenport, and ambulances and commandeered automobiles rushed the injured to hospitals.

A Roman Catholic priest who was aboard the train hastened in torn clothes from one to another of the injured and administered the last rites of their church to several of them.

Senator Reed, of Missouri, says that for the government to put poison in alcohol, knowing that citizens will drink the alcohol, is a near approach to murder.

However, those foolish enough to drink bootleg whisky habitually would probably not live long anyhow.

SCIENTISTS gathered at Williamstown possess the blessed gift of hope. They say chemistry will end all our worries, including food problems. Power locked up in the revolving electrons will run all our machinery, no need or coal, oil or water power. Artificial rubber, better than the genuine, will be made from petroleum. Artificial stone for buildings will take the place of brick shells on buildings.

THE best of it is that all this, and much more, is true. The real wealth of the human race is not in oceans, in fertile soil or even in sunlight. It is principally in the brain of man.

MANY gentlemen, young and old, not interested in the proceedings of the scientific gathering at Oxford university, are intensely interested in the coming prize fight between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney. Some preparing to bet their money on Mr. Dempsey may be interested in the advice of one who knows about fighters and their mental caliber. He says:

"Be careful how you bet on a man that is worried, when he has a limited intellect, not calculated to endure worry."

Dempsey is worried. He quarreled with his manager, who threatens to tie up the receipts of his next fight. He hasn't fought for three years and can only guess whether he is as good as ever. Be careful how you bet on him that is worried.

"IF A holdup man faces you with his automatic," says a wise detective, 'stick 'em up' promptly, when he tells you to. Don't seem nervous, or he will get nervous and perhaps shoot.

SEIZE POUCH OF REGISTERED LETTERS, THEN FLEE IN AUTO

Bind Messenger and Clerk Before Looting Car.

WYOMING ROBBERY

Tamper With Semaphore Signals to Stop Flyer.

RAWLINS, Wyo., Aug. 14.—Two heavily armed bandits early today held up Union Pacific train No. 5, fast west bound mail train, 40 miles west of here, bound and gaged a clerk and messenger in the mail car, emptied the contents of a registered mail pouch into a bag, jumped from the train which they had stopped on signal and fled.

Armed posses are scouring the rugged countryside for the train robbers, who are believed to have escaped in a waiting automobile.

Loot Runs Into Thousands.

No estimate of the loss is available, but officials expressed the belief that it would run into the thousand of dollars.

According to Sheriff Austin of Carbon county, the two men had evidently tampered with the semaphore signals in such a manner as to turn the "red" light on, thus stopping the train, enabling them to board it.

They entered the mail car by breaking a window, bound and gagged the clerk and messenger, and hastily turned the contents of the registered pouch into their own sack.

The hold-up occurred shortly after 2 o'clock this morning.

Bandits Grab $200,000 Diamonds

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 14.—Police today had no clue to the two bandits who grabbed the jewel case containing unset diamonds valued at $200,000 and slugged Sol Roseman, a salesman for the firm of A. Moseman and company, New York city, as Roseman alighted from a taxicab at the Great Northern station here last night.

Roseman had left his hotel to board a train for Grand Forks, N. D., accompanied by O. R. Goodman of Chicago, also a jewelry salesman. When they arrived at the railroad station two men stepped up to the taxicab and as the jewelry salesman alighted, the jewel case was snatched from Roseman. When Rosemen attempted to offer resistance, a revolver was pressed against his body. A second bandit then slugged Roseman into unconsciousness. The full amount of insurance is carried on the diamonds.

SOLONS STEAL "THUNDER" OF SCHOOL BOARD

Apply to Budget Commission for Increased Levy.

RELIEF ACT MOVE

Millage Will be Taken From Education Apportionment.

The city council has literally stolen the "thunder" of the East Liverpool board of education in an effort to obtain additional funds for operating expenses, judging from a resolution passed July 15, last, and filed today in County Auditor Elmer E. Walker's office in Lisbon.

The resolution provides for an increased levy, and should it be granted the funds obtained by the municipality will be taken from the present levy of the board of education. However, it is pointed out that the board of education can secure additional funds by seeking an extra levy at the November election.

Council took advantage of the provisions of Section 5649-5f which provides:

"The taxing authorities of any municipality may by resolution adopted by a two-thirds vote levy annually for the general purposes of the municipality in addition to the levy for current expenses within the 10-mill limitation prescribed by the General Code of the tax rate, a tax not exceeding three and a half mills upon each dollar of the taxable property of such municipality. The budget commission shall not reduce the total levies for current expenses within the combined maximum rate. The additional levy authorized as hereinbefore set forth shall be certified to the budget commission prior to the first Monday in August."

"LITTLE CICERO'S" HOLD ON LAW FORCES AIDES SLAYERS OF MELLETT

Joseph R. Roach, Clean-up Attorney, Charges Evidence That Would Send Several Men to Electric Chair is Hidden by Close Contact Between Authorities and Vice Lords.

BLACKMAIL PLOTS HAVE BROUGHT INTENDED RESULTS, PROBER CLAIMS

Patrick E. McDermott, Sought for Questioning in Connection With Murder of Crusading Editor, is Not Essential to Ultimate Solution of Crime, Chicagoan Tells Newspaper Man.

By PAUL E. BROKAW.

(Copyright, 1926, by the International News Service.)

CANTON, O., Aug. 14.—Absolute hold of Canton's "Little Cicero," on the public—and private—lives of the city and county officials here has halted the inquiry into the Don R. Mellett murder, Joseph R. Roach, national known clean up attorney, declared to the International News Service today.

Evidence that should send several men to the electric chair or that should at least result in their conviction of first degree murder in connection with the Mellett assassination, has been kept from the consideration of the proper investigating bodies because of the close contact between certain Stark county and Canton city authorities, with the lords of the "Jungle," he declared.

Past—and present—blackmail plots, on which Roach intimated he had definite evidence, which were sponsored by persons now under direct suspicion in connection with the assassination of the crusading editor, have brought their intend results.

The "intended results" of these alleged plots which were said to be directed against a person vitally interested in the investigation, were that the murder case should not reach a Stark county grand jury until publicity on the crime and murder itself had died a natural death, said Roach, in substance.

The "ivory handled" revolver of foreign manufacture, reported as having been used in the murder, played a most important part in the assassination, according to Roach, and its owner was today declared by the Chicago attorney as having participated in the crime.

"We are now mighty close to that revolver—the owner of which is known, who, according to evidence I have gleaned, was one of the triggermen," Roach stated.

"Evidence in my possession that should have been gathered and submitted to a special grand jury days ago by Stark county authorities remains untouched," Roach emphatically stated.

"Is Patrick E. McDermott, the man wanted for questioning in connection with this murder, essential to the ultimate solution?" he was asked.

"Absolutely not," Roach replied.

Roach Cannot Act.

"Would you be willing, if called, to go before a grand jury and reiterate the statements you have made and submit to the jurors the evidence you say you have gathered?" He was further questioned.

"Yes, answered the square-jawed man who convicted scores of Indiana officials on charges of law violation and bribery.

"Is there any way, in your capacity as advisory counsel to the acting chief of police, that would legally enable you to bring about the arrests of the

Mrs. Stockwell wrote to Judge Riddle in hopes that some record might be available as to the present whereabouts of Findley.

Donahey Will be Told of "Official Bloc" in Canton

CANTON, O., Aug. 14.—Col. C. F. Bleum, personal investigator for Governor Vic Donahey in the Mellett murder inquiry, left here for Columbus today to report to the chief Ohio executive that an "official bloc" has been organized here and that it portends to build up a defense around those suspected in connection with the murder," it was learned from an authoritative source.

WOMAN LEAPS TO HER DEATH

In Ill Health, She Jumps From Eighth Floor.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—While her husband slept in an adjoining room today, Mrs. Maude Woods, 50, leaped from the window of their eighth floor apartment, and was killed instantly.

The husband, Arthur M. Woods, president of a storage warehouse company, found a hastily penned note, which read:

"My blessed husband:

"Forgive me for doing this terrible thing, but I am too sick and discouraged to carry on.

"MAUDE."

The dead woman had been suffering from a nervous breakdown for two years.

LAUNCH PROBE OF WRECK OF "MILLIONAIRE SPECIAL" ON LONG ISLAND ROAD IN WHICH SIX ARE KILLED AND 60 INJURED

RIVERHEAD, N. Y., Aug. 14.—An official inquiry was under way today of the wreck of the "Millionaire Special" on the Long Island railroad at Calverton, five miles east of here, resulting in six deaths and injuries to more than 60 persons.

Assistant District Attorney Alexander Blue, of Suffolk county, after a hasty examination of members of the crews immediately following the tragedy, said he believed a detective switch had caused the derailment of the speeding train with its 700 passengers.

Troops from Camp Upton and volunteer rescuers were searching this morning in the twisted debris for other dead and wounded. Three persons are still missing.

Locomotives Topple Over.

The "Millionaire Special," pride of the Long Island railroad, was the only train of that road to leave the Pennsylvania station in New York, due to disorganization of schedules by the storm. It had picked up the cars of another train, and due to the heavy passenger list of week-enders and commuters, was hauled by two locomotives.

As the train reached Calverton, traveling at a tremendous rate of speed, both locomotives leaped high in the air and toppled over beside the rails.

Both the fireman and engineer of the first locomotive were killed immediately, being buried underneath the twisting, hissing wreckage.

Dead and Injured.

The dead:

GEORGE A. SCHUFORD, Jr., 3, of Asheville, N. C.

DOROTHY LOUIS SCHUFORD, 1 year old, his sister.

HAROLD L. FISH, stockbroker, New York City.

WILLIAM SQUIRES, engineer, Greenport, N. Y.

JOHN MONTGOMERY, fireman, Greenport, N. Y.

Mrs. GEORGE A. SCHUFORD, Asheville, N. C.

Among the injured were:

MRS. LAURA CONLEY, 12 Cumberland avenue, Asheville, N. C.

JOSEPH SWICK, 10326 106th street, Richmond, Hill, N. Y.

GRANVILLE HARTMAN, New York City.

Mrs. Schuford, the mother of the two children killed, died in Southampton hospital from internal injuries and shock. She was pinned in the wreckage more than five hours.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Angell, parents of Mrs. Schuford, and Mrs. Laura Conley, Mrs. Schuford's colored maid, were hospital patients today. All will recover, doctors said. The maid's foot was partially amputated.

Mrs. Schuford, who is the wife of an attorney in Asheville, did not once lose consciousness while pinned under the wreckage. She was kept in ignorance of the death of her children.

Crash Into Factory Building.

After jumping the tracks east of the Calverton station, the two engines bumped along on the ties for a short distance and then toppled over and crashed into a factory building alongside the track. A pullman car and a combination baggage and smoking car behind the engines also jumped the rails and fell across the tracks. The remainder of the train consisted of five passenger coaches.

Colonel M. G. Spink, of the 62nd coast artillery, brought 300 men from Centerville, five miles away, and plunged into the rescue work amid the hysterical screams of women passengers, and many children who were on the train. The passengers in the rear cars were only shaken up by the derailment, but from the forward cars came the screams and groans of the injured and dying. Three large searchlights were set up to furnish light for the rescue work.

Hurry calls for help were sent to Riverhead and Greenport, and ambulances and commandeered automobiles rushed the injured to hospitals.

A Roman Catholic priest who was aboard the train hastened in torn clothes from one to another of the injured and administered the last rites of their church to several of them.

CHAPTER FORTY-ONE.

Bee moved part way up the steps, then turned and watched Fred go. He swung around the corner without looking back. She stood for some time without moving. Then, distrait, she went into the vestibule. Louise had Delia's key; she'd have to ring to be let in. She looked at the row of mail-boxes in the wall, each with its push-button underneath and a name on a narrow bit of card. There it was, "Bradley." She lifted a hand toward the button. But instead of ringing she let her hand fall. Slowly she moved out of the vestibule, down the steps and on to the corner. At the drug store she drank a glass of malted milk; then she crossed the Square to the subway station on its curbed-in island, rode to Forty-second street and walked swiftly across to the public Library.

Attendants pointed the way to the newspaper room. That meeting with Fred must have taken place in April. About the middle of the month, she thought. The huge file was spread for her on a sloping desk. With an eagerness tinged with dread she turned the pages. Her quick eyes fell on this and that item she remembered. Crimes of violence, motor accidents, divorces—sprinkled everywhere, these, among the crowded columns of print; you saw so many such ugly items every morning that your sensibilities instinctively hardened and threw them off. The random nervous thought came that they were significant symptoms of a gravely disordered civilization. People didn't think, prosperous people. They didn't really think.

Her thoughts were darting this way and that. She knew she was strung up pretty high, but couldn't help that. Systematically, in an effort to direct her jerky brain into more orderly channels, she began with the headlines column by column and page by page. Finally, right on a front page, she found it: "Two Killed Near White Plains. Drunken Motorist Held." And so on. Yes, it was Fred. Curious. She dimly remembered having glanced at that item at the breakfast table one morning. It was familiar. But she hadn't happened on Fred's name. She took it in now more with her nerves than with her brain—"Dash it, I'm all nerves!"

There had been trouble first at a roadhouse. Fred, it was claimed, had attacked another guest. A man was with him, and two young women, said to be chorus girls. The proprietor stated that he had had to put them out. Apparently all four were drunk. They had had to carry one of the girls from the roadhouse to the car after dinner. Four people in that little roadster of his! Two in the rumble seat, doubtless, holding each other in while Fred hit it up sixty miles an hour. Apparently Fred had undertaken to race another car, and while racing had struck a third machine that was parked by the roadside in a dark spot. It was the man and girl in that third car who were killed. "In the early morning hours," read the story. "Hm!" mused Bee. "A little petting-party! The whole thing reads like 'The Dance of Death.' And yet I passed it over as commonplace the first time I saw it. Hm! Quite a world!"

She picked up her bag, mechanically powdered her nose and went out. Apparently what she wanted next was a telephone. She felt flushed and hot, and curiously excited and depressed at the same time. Her eyes didn't see much of all that passed on the street. She had a queer sense of being alone in a crowded world, of venturing more doggedly than daringly into paths which, though new, had yet been trodden by millions of other lonely feet before hers. In a Sixth Avenue drug store she found a telephone booth. She called Fred. The operator said, "They don't answer" and dropped her nickel. She felt excitedly forlorn, and walked as hard as she could up Sixth Avenue. The grinding roar of the elevated trains overhead gratified her deeply primitive mood. At his street in the Fifties she turned over to Broadway; and there from another booth called him again. He was in. Her heart leaped.

"Hello, Fred,' 'she heard herself saying. It's Bee."

"Oh, hello Bee."

That was all he said. He didn't help her. She waited, feeling a confused fool. An impulse came to slam the receiver back on the hook and walk away. But she couldn't do that. She felt tied, helpless—beaten, really. In a minute she'd be crying, if she wasn't careful.

"What are you doing, Fred?" That was banal enough. But it was all she could think of to say. She stamped a small foot impatiently. He couldn't hear that.

"Why, nothing. I just came in. Been out for a bite. Anything the matter?"

"No. I—".

"There's something I can do, Bee. What is it?"

"No, I just—" Her cheeks were flaming, but he couldn't see them. "I just happened to be up in your part of town—"

"Oh, I supposed you'd be down at the Peacock Feather."

"No, I didn't go there." She was on the verge of downright irrational anger.

"Where are you?"

"Over here at the corner of Broadway." There was a silence. "Darn it, Fred, why don't you ask me to come up and see you?"

"Oh, I couldn't do that very well, Bee. You see—well, I've just got a little bedroom here, and—"

She stamped again. He WAS Victorian! The old convention was to her the downright vulgarest of the hideously vulgar Puritan prohibitions.

He was speaking: "I'll come right down, Bee."

The marvelous NEW EASY WASHER

THE new Easy Washer is the most amazing machine ever invented to wash clothes. It has two tubs but no wringer. The small tub dries one batch of clothes while the large tub washes another batch. No need to postone your washing for a clear day, because the Easy will dry clothes ready for immediate ironing. No water to handle; no water wasted. The precious soap suds are returned to the wash tub; the rinse and blue water go back into the stationary rinse and bluing tubs. The Easy even empties itself when you are all through. Does twice the work in half the time of ordinary washers. Phone today for a free demonstration and get your week's washing done without cost or obligation.

Powerful four-wheel mechanical brakes, the last word in safety.
54 horsepower, long stroke motor, rated at 20.
The tax saving is only part of its economy.

WHEN the new "70" Willys-Knight Six was first announced 7 months ago, we told you that here was a new-era car . . . modernly designed, modernly engineered . . .

That it would out-perform anything that had ever been built of its size or type or price-class.

We told you it was the liveliest car of its price ever built . . .

That it presented an order of efficiency and economy all its own.

We told you about its European-type mechanical 4-wheel brakes—the same type of braking system you find on 97% of foreign cars—that would give you a new conception of quick stopping.

We told you that, with more compact external dimensions, the new "70" Willys-Knight Six provided more inside room than any other car of its wheelbase you had ever driven.

That was 7 months ago.

What happened in the interval?

In the first thirty days, the new "70" Willys-Knight Six was the talk of America.

A new order of performance had come . . .

Modern engineering had provided a new sensation for the jaded motoring palate.

Within 60 days the new "70" Willys-Knight Six had swept this country from one end to the other . . .

It had arrived . . .

It was a proven proposition . . . It had more than lived up to every claim we had made for it.

From the start, the news spread like wildfire. Sales were tremendous.

One owner told another.

The story spread.

The new "70" Willys-Knight Six has become the fastest-selling new Six in its price class.

And each week sees it increasing its lead at the liveliest clip on record.

This "70" Willys-Knight Six combined with the Willys-Knight Great Six, the famous Overland Six and the new Overland Whippet just announced last month comprise the complete line of Willys-Overland modern quality automobiles.

You owe it to yourself to see these new-type cars.

The new Willys Finance Plan means less money down, smaller monthly payments and the lowest credit-cost . . . Willys-Overland, Inc., Toledo, Ohio.

Tilden Facing Tests In Week-End Matches

Play Bill Johnston This Afternoon and Will Pit Skill Against Vin Richards Tomorrow.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The hour is at hand, the die is cast, the Rubicon is lapping gently in the foreground. For months, we have been regaled with opinions, pro and con, as to whether William T. Tilden soon will be no more, but the next 24 hours will remove the issue from the realm of theory to the certainty of fact. It will cease to be a question and become an answer.

This afternoon at Forest Hills, William will engage Bill Johnston in one of the singles matches of the east-west series. Tomorrow at Rye, he will face Vincent Richards in the final round of the southern New York state championship.

If Tilden can live this situation down, he must be accepted as the Tilden of old, the dazzling, daring, temptestuous, tireless and always temperamental master of the court play. If he can't he isn't.

May Not Be At His Best.

At his best, he could win from both. But the insinuation is general that he isn't at his best and never will be again and, in that case, he could lose to both with great ease. The only thing the matter with that argument is that Johnston has clearly indicated in his eastern play that he is at least a month away from top stride.

If he hasn't ... and more than a suggestion of his form overnight, then Tilden's chances of dropping both matches are at least one in five.

Richards, they say is the best bet. For two weeks he has been playing better tennis than any one on the American courts and his record this year is three straight victories over Tilden. This may mean anything or nothing, it being Tilden's custom to play indifferently until such time as the championships overtake him. However, all of them have been taking a fall out of the champion, Richard, Borotra, Lacoste, even Chapain, and that sort of thing wasn't being done in other seasons.

Of the two, the writer would pick Johnston as a superior bet over Richards, against Tilden. For one thing, Richards has won his share of matches from the champion this season and would seem to be overdue for a cropper. For another, if Richards was playing great tennis last week, it argues against him doing so tomorrow. The young man seldom holds his form over protracted periods.

As for Johnson, he seems to be able to raise his game at will when Tilden is on the opposite side of the net. His form has known its moments of depression during recent years, but seldom has this been true in a Tilden match.

That the latter is duly aware of this fact is proved by the length of today's match, which is to settled on a basis of the best three in five sets. The change from the two-in-three proposition was made at the suggestion of Tilden himself. He knows that the Davis cup committee will be watching the match and is taking no chances. He also knows that Johnston would have been champion in 1922 and again in 1925 if the nationals were conducted on a three-set basis.

Bill Tilden may be many things! but he's no man's sap.

Manush's speed afoot and Cobb's liking for his general style has prosaged big things for him ever since he joined the team. Fothergill, on the other hand, has had to battle gamely to prove that he is an A. 1. ball player—capable of holding down a regular berth.

AKRON, O., Aug. 14.—Is the picture of a bathing beauty, sans bathing suit, a work of art or an "indecent exposure?"

An Earl Carroll or Flo Ziegfeld is wanted in this city to settle this question.

The recent drive of police authorities to enforce the ordinance prohibiting sale or display of immoral literature or indecent pictures has been halted, owing to the failure of the guardians of the city's morals to agree on this aesthetic problem.

Declaraing that many magazines with nude art were being sold here, Councilman W. C. Criner, denounced the police department today for failure to enforce the law.

He was told that police have no authority to censor mazagines that seem objectionable to some people.

City fathers are now engaged in sending out S. O. S. calls for an Anthony Comstock to rally to their aid.

After All We Want to Be "Good Neighbors"

Is the spirit of neighborliness contagious? Well, we think it is. Since we began this little series of messages to you about it, we've had numerous letters on the subject.

For example we'll quote from one we received the other day. It was from one of our Neighbors, a Farmer of Columbiana County. He's in daily touch with our friends of the farms—talks with 'em over the fence. "Neighborliness," he wrote, "means more to our city than our undoubted industrial, commercial and transportation advantages. Promotion of a friendlier feeling can't help but rebound to the credit of the business men of the city and the farms. Your method must necessarily be far-reaching in scope and influence."

Neighborhood Propaganda Spreads fast and effectively.

Occurred to us to mention this in this, our last heart-to-heart talk but one, to you, our neighbors. Frankly, in our opinion, that brief note said a pageful.

Thank You

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

SATURDAY, AUGUST 14, 1926.

Peace In Pottery Industry

The National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, parental union of skilled ceramic workers in North American plants, and the United States Potters' association, the manufacturers' organization, have mutually agreed to renew the general ware agreement, with a few minor changes.

This was the cheerful news received by the East Liverpool district last night from Atlantic City, N. J., where conferees have been in a session since Wednesday. Details of the pact, which governs the wages and working conditions for more than 8,000 journeymen, are expected to be announced upon the return of the representatives to their homes.

Adjustment of differences, if any, means peace in the American ceramic industry until the fall of 1928, for the agreement will date from Oct. 1, when the present pact expires.

Thus amicable relations, which seldom have been broken, will continue between employer and employe in the clay-making industry. And with harmony prevailing, they can work to a common end—combat against the menace of foreign competition and the latter force's cheap labor and poor working conditions.

French Fury and Fact

From French utterances blaming America for the French financial crisis, it might be supposed that the French population was sunk in deep gloom.

A different picture is presented in a letter from an American correspondent. Writing from Paris recently, he says:

"Fench money has gone to smash. One might imagine that the people would indicate how they feel about it by their manners and the way they conduct themselves. They do not. Paris was ever gay. It is the same today when the franc is worth slightly over two cents as when it was worth 20 cents in purchasing power.

"The restaurants and cafes are crowded. In the more fashionable places it is difficult to procure a seat. They are dining out, as they dined out before 1914. Wine and champagne are everywhere, and the popping of corks is as frequent a sound as the chugging of automobiles, which seems eternal. Everyone rides in a taxi in Paris."

France suffered greatly in the war, observes an American editor, but France is not suffering today. Statesmen are harrassed by the financial problems confronting them, but the people are not.

"The French people are comfortable enough. The outcry against American covetousness does not come from a nation where unemploymet is prevalent or where babies are starving. There is no likelihood that any Frenchman will be hurt noticeably if the funding agreement signed by Berenger and Mellon is ratified. France's problem would of course be greatly simplified by the concellation of the Ameican debt, but the problem does not materially affect the health and happiness of the French people."

Nearly half that debt has been cancelled in the liberal terms made to France. Possibly America should be still more liberal, even though the debt principal proposed by Secretary Mellon represents hardly anything but post-war loans for rehabilitation and the price of the surplus American war supplies sold to France after the armistice. But America would be disposed to be more generous if France had ever paid anything on her American obligations, or shown any disposition to do so, and if the French people had been taxed as Americans have been.

The present violent protests look as if France has never intended to pay anything, and does not now intend to pay anything.

Motors And Midsummer

No wonder one of the Morgan financiers prophesised a big rise in General Motors stock, and exchange went wild over that issue. Later publication of its business for the first half of the year has shown profits nearly twice as large as for the same period last year—and those were large enough to suit most investors.

This particular automobile outfit, one of the greatest of "key corporations" in the United States, has been making money at the rate of about $35 a share per year on its common stock, and at the rate of $186,0000,000 a year applicable for dividends. While many people were shaking their heads dubiously over the state of the nation's business health, "G. M." was making about as much money in half a year as it had made in the whole of 1925.

Now, people don't buy autotomobiles and motor accessories in such quantities and at such prices as will pile up such huge profits unless people in general are feeling pretty comfortable financially. The boom in motor stock is a fortunate development, at a time usually devoted to midsummer blues. Except locally and in odd industries, there doesn't seem to be any of the "usual midsummer dullness" this year.

Anyway, this much has been done to discourage American gunmen—the importation of foreign revolvers in imitation of our own has been prohibited, and now even our most exclusive gunners will have to content themselves with native weapons.

America so far has avoided a dictatorship; still, we have a traffic cop on nearly every corner.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The metropolitan dancing world is divided into two classes. Those who "dawnce," and those who "den-s-e." The latter fill the increasing number of moderate priced dance halls that are a throwback to the days of the old Bowery "spiels."

Here may be found blondined Gerties and truck-driving Jakes trying to escape the dullness of a medicore world. For so much a dance, gentlemen are furnished ladies to whirl about to the crash of jazz. There is the gleam of red ties and gold teeth.

The girls are mostly those who toil by day in lofts and at the basement counters. They appear pathetically tired. But ladies must live! Always is the expected thrill of romance. A rich and lonely gentleman, seeking diversions, meeting the only girl!

Matronly hostesses are on hand to spread a veneer of respectability. "Miss La Mott, meet Mr. Bla." And they swing off on the polished space while she listens to the usual story and gives the usual response: "Pick me up at the corner. We close at one."

The dance halls are conducted by alert looking men, given to diamond studs, who impress one as being able to take care of themselves in emergency, but in reserve are a few second-rate pugilists with hefty wallops for the gentry who indulge "gate crashing."

Ostensibly only soft drinks are served, but as a rule each girl has a friend who knows a friend who can get a fellow to deliver a small bottle of gin, "but if the hostess saw it, I'd lose my job. She's awfully refined."

These dance halls range from those ensconced in former kitchens of Greenwich Village homes to those gaudily baroque affairs with mammoth electric signs on Broadway and other streets.

Exclusive establishments operating branches at Newport, Palm Beach and sundry tony watering places admit they are conducted almost invariably at a loss, so far as actual profits go, but the loss is more than covered by added prestige and permanent clientele.

Manhattan Island is widest at 89th stret. There was a civic ambition at one time when the city's growth was sweeping northward to make it the most expensive boulevard in town, with a three-lined mall in the center, but it never materialized. One of the tragedies of New York's growth is that it expanded too quickly to leave enduring spots of beauty in its wake.

There is an old banking house downtown that requires male employes to wear frock coats during working hours, and a swank tobacco shop on Fifth avenue has employes habited in white linen dusters, but the crowning touch is a ladies' shoe parlor on Broadway, catering to after-theatre trade, with clerks in Tuxedoes.

There is something engagingly frank in this sign in a smart jewelry shop: "Jewelry neither covers nor warms. It's only reason for being is beauty."

One of the best know hair shinglers was recently wanted at an early hour to clip a visiting princess. He had been at one hotel for ten years, but no one knew his last name. He had made his reputation on his first name and his last never mattered. I doubt if the most persistent diner-out knows teh last name of any head-waiter in town.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Irrigation Farmers Aided.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 14.—A new era has dawned for the settlers on reclaimed land under government irrigation projects in the far west, as a result of recent acts of congress, in the opinion of Dr. Elwood Mead, commissioner of the Bureau of Reclamation, who has returned from an extensive trip of inspection of these projects.

The basis of relief granted to settlers on the irrigated lands has been to relieve the successful settlers of payments for the share of the project costs which was expended on useless or partly useless land. Under the original law, every settler on an irrigation project had his property mortgaged, in effect, until the whole project cost was paid for. This plan was designed to protect the government, and might have been fair enough if every acre of land included in the project surveys and estimates had proved to be good, productive land.

This was the theory, the assumption being that once a water distribution project was completed, all of the land under the project would become very valuable and productive. A number of factors upset this theory in practice. Some of the land might be of stony or otherwise useless soil, some of it might be exposed to winds, frosts, or other conditions destructive to crops, and sometimes the projects did not actually develop enough water for all of the lands estimated as coming within their scope.

Also the cost of projects frequently mounted up higher than original estimates, and thereby placed a basic mortgage which when distributed over the whole area was too heavy for any but the most productive sections to bear.

All of these and other factors placed such a handicap on many projects that even the most thrifty and successful farmers came to feel that they were up against an impossible proposition if they had to bear the project costs for the worthless lands which had been included in the assessed areas.

After repeated appeals for relief, and several grants of temporary relief by congress for certain projects, President Harding shortly before his death asked Secretary of the Interior Work to give the whole question of settlement on irrigated lands a careful review with the idea of discovering what sort of permanent relief was practical and fair.

HISTORY IN THE UN-MAKING.

There used to be a character in George Creel's town in Missouri, a transplanted Kentuckian, a self-appointed colonel and a veteran of Shelby's command, who was a born orator and an inspired romancer.

One sunny afternoon he was holding forth to an attentive and sympathetic audience upon the part he had played in the war between the States. It was rather to be inferred that he was one of the main reasons why the Confederancy endured, against odds, for four years. He progressed to where he was enriching history with an account of the first engagement in which he had participated.

"Gentlemen," he proclaimed, "envisage the scene. There we stand, a little group, armed for the most part with nondescript weapons, with flint lock muskets, with scythes, with axes, even with cudgels. We are underfed, half shod and ragged, yet inspired by the dauntless resolution and splendid valor which sustained the Southern heart. Over the slope and straight against our line come pouring the Northern hordes, those relentless invaders of our beloved Southland, lusty and strong and equipped with every appliance for conducting warfare that modern science can provide.

"We are outnumbered three to one; we are weak from hunger while they are lusty with bacon and beef. But none among us quails. A righteous belief in our sacred cause inspires us, every one. Each one feels himself a giant. And what is the result? Suddenly we leap forward in the charge. We grapple with them, we fight like demons. And, gentlemen, such is the impetuosity of our attack, such the ferocity of our blows that soon the blue lines break and in mad disorder routed the enemy flees, unable to face that irresistible torrent of Southern manhood."

From the audience spoke up a gray bearded listener.

"Say looky here, Kurnel," he said. "I was in that there fight myself and what really happened wuz that them plegged Yanks give us a fust rate lickin' and run us ten miles acrost country."

With a magnificent gesture of surrender the Colonel rose to his feet.

"Gentlemen," he said, "another instance of a good story spoiled by a damn eyewitness!"

Fact Finding Commission.

For many years before he entered the White House President Harding had been a close student of land questions, especially interesting himself in the reclamation of the arid lands of the west. With returning soldiers of the World war clamoring for lands, and filing on every acre made available, the president wanted to find out if the government was really giving these soldiers a benefit when it allowed them a 60-day preference in filing on irrigated lands, or whether they were simply being allowed to go up against a hopelessly over-financed proposition, where they would expend their limited capital and then lose out in a heart-breaking task of home making on over-mortgaged farms.

The so-called "Fact Finding Commission," selected by Secretary Work, reported on measures of relief which would give the settlers on irrigated lands a real chance to establish themselves. This report was the basis of legislation by the last session of congress, and Dr. Mead, after some weeks of travel through the west, now reports to Secretary Work that the remedy is taking effect, and that the settlers are now most optimistic on practically every project, and are going forward with their work in confidence that they can meet their payments and will ultimately secure full title to their farms.

There is a great deal of unwritten history back of this four or five years of effort to straighten out the early mistakes of the government in carrying out its reclamation policy. Part of it ought to be told because it shows the late president in his true light on a subject which had his personal and thoughtful attention. It is pretty difficult to know which of the many things coming before a president get his personal judgment, and on which he is obliged to take the advice of associates. The reclamation question was to a great degree Mr. Harding's own problem, because he had long studied it.

During the campaign of 1920 a group of governors of western states made a pilgrimage to the famous front porch, at Marion, Ohio to see the candidate, Senator Harding. Many people thought this was just a campaign stunt. Actually it was a very definite move by the governors to find out whether the candidate actually was ready and willing to give real help in the irrigated land situation, and to aid the west in getting a reclamation law which would work. Mr. Harding made fairly definite promises to the governors, not merely because he wanted their campaign support, but because he knew of their problem and wanted to have it solved. He never forgot that promise.

West's Idea of a Good Bill.

The Western States Reclamation association, of which former Governor Davis, of Idaho, was then president, sponsored a reclamation bill which was introduced by Representative Smith, of Idaho, and by Senator McNary, of Oregon, in the two houses of congress. It was the west's idea of a workable bill, and many of the veterans' associations endorsed it. Possibly it went farther in expenditures than President Harding expected to go, but it had at least his partial endorsement. This bill could not muster a majority in the house of representatives, but Senator McNary, aided by other western leaders, could have passed it in the senate at almost any time.

Meanwhile the soldiers' bonus bill was pending, and the senators attached the McNary bill as an amendment to that, thereby making it rather dif-

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

SATURDAY, AUGUST 14, 1926.

Peace In Pottery Industry

The National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, parental union of skilled ceramic workers in North American plants, and the United States Potters' association, the manufacturers' organization, have mutually agreed to renew the general ware agreement, with a few minor changes.

This was the cheerful news received by the East Liverpool district last night from Atlantic City, N. J., where conferees have been in a session since Wednesday. Details of the pact, which governs the wages and working conditions for more than 8,000 journeymen, are expected to be announced upon the return of the representatives to their homes.

Adjustment of differences, if any, means peace in the American ceramic industry until the fall of 1928, for the agreement will date from Oct. 1, when the present pact expires.

Thus amicable relations, which seldom have been broken, will continue between employer and employe in the clay-making industry. And with harmony prevailing, they can work to a common end—combat against the menace of foreign competition and the latter force's cheap labor and poor working conditions.

French Fury and Fact

From French utterances blaming America for the French financial crisis, it might be supposed that the French population was sunk in deep gloom.

A different picture is presented in a letter from an American correspondent. Writing from Paris recently, he says:

After repeated appeals for relief, and several grants of temporary relief by congress for certain projects, President Harding shortly before his death asked Secretary of the Interior Work to give the whole question of settlement on irrigated lands a careful review with the idea of discovering what sort of permanent relief was practical and fair.

Fact Finding Commission.

For many years before he entered the White House President Harding had been a close student of land questions, especially interesting himself in the reclamation of the arid lands of the west. With returning soldiers of the World war clamoring for lands, and filing on every acre made available, the president wanted to find out if the government was really giving these soldiers a benefit when it allowed them a 60-day preference in filing on irrigated lands, or whether they were simply being allowed to go up against a hopelessly over-financed proposition, where they would expend their limited capital and then lose out in a heart-breaking task of home making on over-mortgaged farms.

"Gentlemen," he proclaimed, "envisage the scene. There we stand, a little group, armed for the most part with nondescript weapons, with flint lock muskets, with scythes, with axes, even with cudgels. We are underfed, half shod and ragged, yet inspired by the dauntless resolution and splendid valor which sustained the Southern heart. Over the slope and straight against our line come pouring the Northern hordes, those relentless invaders of our beloved Southland, lusty and strong and equipped with every appliance for conducting warfare that modern science can provide.

"We are outnumbered three to one; we are weak from hunger while they are lusty with bacon and beef. But none among us quails. A righteous belief in our sacred cause inspires us, every one. Each one feels himself a giant. And what is the result? Suddenly we leap forward in the charge. We grapple with them, we fight like demons. And, gentlemen, such is the impetuosity of our attack, such the ferocity of our blows that soon the blue lines break and in mad disorder routed the enemy flees, unable to face that irresistible torrent of Southern manhood."

From the audience spoke up a gray bearded listener.

"Say looky here, Kurnel," he said. "I was in that there fight myself and whut really happened wuz that them plegged Yanks give us a fust rate lickin' and run us ten miles acrost country."

With a magnificent gesture of surrender the Colonel rose to his feet.

"Gentlemen," he said, "another instance of a good story spoiled by a damn eyewitness!"

Find Evidence of Battle Of Two Mastodons In Ohio

Volunteer Excavators Uncover Rib Bones of Prehistoric Specimen on Farm Near Johnstown, O.

JOHNSTOWN, O., Aug. 14.—Thousands of years ago two colossal mastodons engaged in a death struggle which ended fatally for each, both dying on the scene, now the farm of Friend Buck, about four miles from here.

Evidences of the titanic battle were being unearthed here today by a small army of volunteer excavators working under the supervision of archaeological experts from the Ohio state museum at Columbus.

Prof. H. R. Goodwin, in charge of disinterring the skeleton of a prehistoric specimen—believed to have been a dinosaur, yesterday found the rib bones of another mastodon in front of the skull of the giant being unearthed.

This evidence and the fact that the skull already dug up shows a huge cavity as if caused by the tusks of an adversary led him to express the belief that the bones of two animals will be found as they probably had died while locked together in battle.

That part of the skeleton now exposed to view shows it to be in an amazing state of preservation. Although one of the tusks was broken by a shovel, the other bones are being taken out intact. Experts believe that a complete skeleton will be found. Only a half dozen of these have ever been recovered.

TILSON LAUDS BUTLER AT NEW ENGLAND MEET

Loss of Senator Would be Blow to Administration.

HE IS ABLE MAN

Connecticut Congressman Urges Economy and Protective Tariff.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 14.—The loss of Senator William M. Butler, (R.), of Massachusetts, from the senate "would be a great blow to the administration and to the Republican party throughout the country," Representative John O. Tilson, of Connecticut, Republican floor leader of the house, declared here today at a Republican outing in honor of Butler.

"The distinguished senior senator from Massachusetts has stood at the right hand of the president, and has helped his administration in every possible way," Tilson declared. "He is a tower of strength for the administration and for the Republican party. I measure my words when I say that no man in the senate today is his superior in ability, in common sense or in capacity for serving the people of his state and nation.

"I cannot over-emphasize the importance of his re-election in November."

Tilson pleaded for maintenance of the "economy bulwark" in congress and for a firm stand to preserve the protective tariff system.

Butler, who is also chairman of the republican national committee, faces a stiff fight against former Senator David I. Walsh, Democratic candidate.

OHIOAN KILLED BY POLICEMAN

Middletown Cop Fires as Youth Drives Away Auto.

MIDDLETOWN, O., Aug. 14.—Jess E. Yarber, 25, formerly of this city, but lately living in Cincinnati, was dead today as the result of being shot by American Rolling Mill Policeman Frank Cramer who claimed he caught Yarber and two companions in the act of driving away an automobile owned by James Greenfield, rolling mill employe.

The tragedy occurred just before midnight. Cramer had been watching the three men for 10 minutes, according to his story, before they entered Greenfield's car. As they started to drive it away, Cramer let go his artillery. The first bullet pierced the left door of the car and lodged in the cushion beneath Yarber. The next bullet crashed into Yarber's left side, going clear through the body and lodging under the skin on the right shoulder. Yarber crumpled over lifeless in the driver's seat.

Mrs. Clara Milton, of this city, mother of the victim of Cramer's shooting, said her boy had been staying with relatives at Cincinnati and had not been working the last few days. She saw him the last time she said in front of a picture show here Wednesday night.

Does Golfer Hagen Fear Duncan? Asks London Standard

LONDON, Aug. 14.—"Does Hagen fear Duncan?"

The Evening Standard makes this query today, pointing out that Walter Hagen has not yet replied to a challenge from George Duncan for a 72-hole match for $2500 over the Pine Valley course in Philadelphia.

"After his attack on British golfers it is obvious that he can't afford to be beaten by one or he would be the laughing stock of the whole golfing word," said the Standard.

The Standard attacks Hagen as a schemer who is always striving to gain a moral advantage over his opponents by any form of tactics."

Duncan is one man that Hagen can not worry or upset, the newspaper says, adding:

"Hagen can only draw the princely salary of $30,000 a year for four months' work in Florida, as he retains his popularity. He may have concluded is would be unwise to risk his reputation being further damaged as it wuld be if Duncan beat him."

Faces Non-Support Charge.

Charles Casto was arrested yesterday afternoon in Third street on a charge of non-support and intoxication. He will be arraigned Monday before Judge Hanley in municipal court.

Risler was represented by the law firm, Cohen and Gardner, which defended him during his long murder trial, and pleaded not guilty.

The dry officers charged Risler with having had two bottles of beer in his home at the time that McCoy raided the place and was killed. The beer constituted exhibits A and B at the murder trial.

murderers of Mellett or that you could personally present the case to a grand jury?"

"None," Roach replied.

Confidence in Bernsteen.

It was pointed out to the Chicago investigator that Governor Vic Donahey has been quoted as saying that he was not empowered to act in the Mellett case except should a liquor conspiracy develop that would involve city or county officials.

"The governor will have plenty of legal room for definite action," Roach said.

Regarding the conference that Judge H. C. Pontius, former attorney of the slain publisher, and a "mystery witness" held with District Attorney A. E. Bernsteen, Cleveland, yesterday, Roach today declared that if "evidence revealed there is acted upon one of the most exceptional revelations in criminal history should be uncovered."

Roach repeatedly asserted his complete confidence in Bernsteen and his first assistant, Miles E. Evans, declaring that "they will see this case through to the bitter end, regardless of political and moneyed actions."

Sums Up Evidence.

In the brief, the evidence which Roach claimed to have gathered included, according to his statements today, the following alleged facts:

That several Canton policemen will eventually be linked with the actual crime.

That a Canton detective drove a liquor truck from Cleveland to Canton during the inception of the murder plot and that "Red" McDermott, alleged triggerman, accompanied the detective on the liquor truck trip here.

That despite the investigation carried on here during the past four weeks the lawless element has flaunted the flag of scorn in the face of the police department by continuing, unabated, its illegitimate practices.

That a huge whisky and narcotic bootlegging ring, evidently a part of a Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit and Chicago conspiracy, existed here, presumably under the protection of certain law enforcement agencies.

Detectives "Marking Time."

While Roach was making these startling disclosures, operatives under Ora Slater, Cincinnati detective, in charge of the investigation, were admittedly "marking time" until McDermott is captured.

County Prosecuetor C. B. McClintock was preparing to go before the grand jury which is scheduled to meet Monday. He has subpoenaed eight newspaper men who he hopes will throw some light on alleged affidavits which were claimed to have connected several prominent persons with purchases of whisky.

Seeks Special Prosecutor.

CANTON, O., Aug. 14. — County Prosecutor C. B. McClintock will ask Attorney General C. C. Crabbe for a special prosecutor to assist him in presenting the murder case of Don R. Mellett before a Stark county grand jury the week of August 30, it was declared today.

"If there is testimony available to show who killed Mellett we most certainly want it," McClintock asserted.

"The grand jury investigation will be wide open to investigators who claim to possess evidence in the crime," he added.

Federal, state, county and city investigators will undoubtedly be called before the jury, the prosecutor indicated.

Witnesses and persons who are claimed to have information involving the murders will be subpoenaed in wholesale lots, it was declared by those closest to the investigation.

The Canton Daily News says that it was reported today that Prosecutor McClintock was summoned Friday to the office of Attorney George H. Clark, former justice of the Ohio supreme court, who advised against federal participation in the probe.

The Daily News also says that "the pressure which is being brought to bear upon McClintock to induce him to regard lightly the evidence produced by Joseph R. Roach and others, was the subject of discussion Thursday at a conference in Cleveland between McClintock and A. E. Bernsteen, district attorney, it was learned today .

Three New Witnesses Held In Hall-Mills Murder Probe

They are Expected to Support Testimony of "Pig Woman" That She Saw Double Tragedy.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 14.—Three new witnesses were being held in leash by the state today to support the testimony of Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "pig woman," that she saw the murders of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills near New Brunswick. Willard Straub, 27, of New Brunswick, the state's "ace in the hole," was being held in default of $3,000 bail as a material witness. Four years' hiding of vital knowledge of the murders to prevent a young woman becoming involved in the inquiry is the role said to have been played by Straub. Straub and the young woman were said to have stood within 75 feet of the crab-apple tree under which the rector and his "soul mate" were shot to death.

The other witnesses are Mr. and Mrs. Morris Eisler of Highland Park, N. J., reported to have been motoring near the murder scene on the night of the double tragedy.

IN MEMORIAM.

In memory of Mrs. R. B. Stevenson, who died one year ago today:

One more loving friend has left us,
One with whom 'twas hard to part;
One whose life work is ended
With the warm love of her heart.

Far beyond that lovely shore,
Where loved ones have gone before,
And where God will always send
Those true and loving friends.

Mother's gone far across that shore
To a bright and shining land
Where the light will always shine
For to meet loved ones left behind.

Loving husband, loving children,
Look to God and try to smile;
Mother's only gone before you
For a very little while.

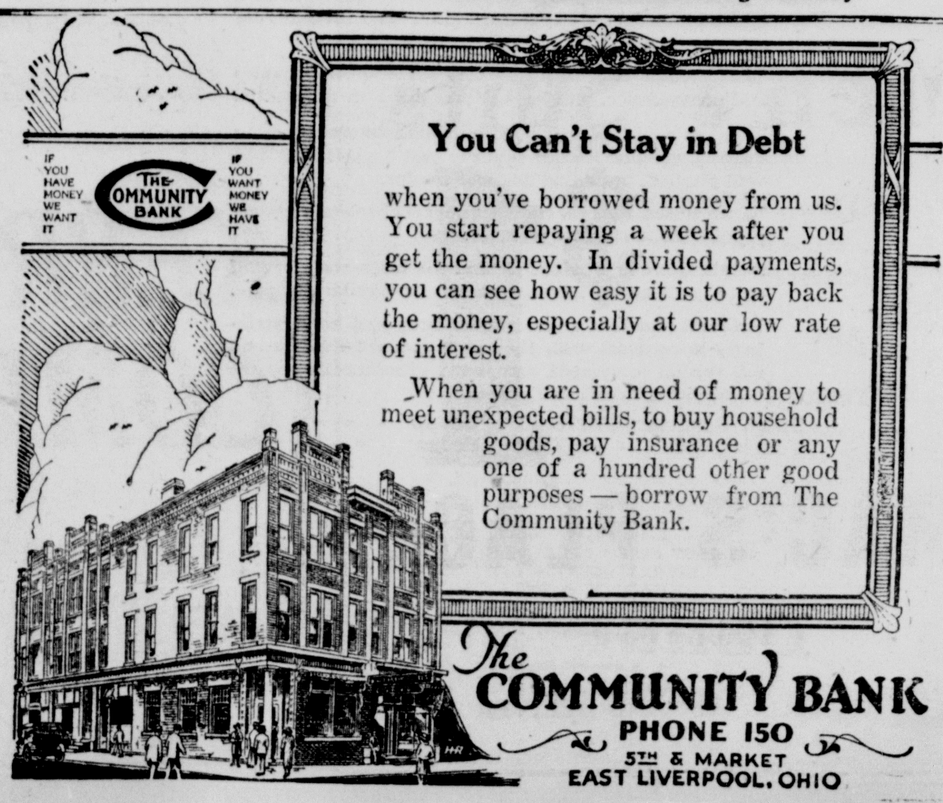

Mourning husband, mourning children, cease your weeping,
Lift you eyes above the sod.
Although mother's sleeping in her grave
And her spirit gone with God.

To seek her peaceful rest
She's left her husband, children, friends and all.
Who may by God be blessed.

Find Evidence of Battle Of Two Mastodons In Ohio

Volunteer Excavators Uncover Rib Bones of Prehistoric Specimen on Farm Near Johnstown, O.

JOHNSTOWN, O., Aug. 14.—Thousands of years ago two colossal mastodons engaged in a death struggle which ended fatally for each, both dying on the scene, now the farm of Friend Buck, about four miles from here.

Evidences of the titanic battle were being unearthed here today by a small army of volunteer excavators working under the supervision of archaeological experts from the Ohio state museum at Columbus.

Prof. H. R. Goodwin, in charge of disinterring the skeleton of a prehistoric specimen—believed to have been a dinosaur, yesterday found the rib bones of another mastodon in front of the skull of the giant being unearthed.

This evidence and the fact that the skull already dug up shows a huge cavity as if caused by the tusks of an adversary led him to express the belief that the bones of two animals will be found as they probably had died while locked together in battle.

That part of the skeleton now exposed to view shows it to be in an amazing state of preservation. Although one of the tusks was broken by a shovel, the other bones are being taken out intact. Experts believe that a complete skeleton will be found. Only a half dozen of these have ever been recovered.

TILSON LAUDS BUTLER AT NEW ENGLAND MEET

Loss of Senator Would be Blow to Administration.

HE IS ABLE MAN

Connecticut Congressman Urges Economy and Protective Tariff.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 14.—The loss of Senator William M. Butler, (R.), of Massachusetts, from the senate "would be a great blow to the administration and to the Republican party throughout the country," Representative John O. Tilson, of Connecticut, Republican floor leader of the house, declared here today at a Republican outing in honor of Butler.

"The distinguished senior senator from Massachusetts has stood at the right hand of the president, and has helped his administration in every possible way," Tilson declared. "He is a tower of strength for the administration and for the Republican party. I measure my words when I say that no man in the senate today is his superior in ability, in common sense or in capacity for serving the people of his state and nation.

"I cannot over-emphasize the importance of his re-election in November."

Tilson pleaded for maintenance of the "economy bulwark" in congress and for a firm stand to preserve the protective tariff system.

Butler, who is also chairman of the republican national committee, faces a stiff fight against former Senator David I. Walsh, Democratic candidate.

OHIOAN KILLED BY POLICEMAN

Middletown Cop Fires as Youth Drives Away Auto.

MIDDLETOWN, O., Aug. 14.—Jess E. Yarber, 25, formerly of this city, but lately living in Cincinnati, was dead today as the result of being shot by American Rolling Mill Policeman Frank Cramer who claimed he caught Yarber and two companions in the act of driving away an automobile owned by James Greenfield, rolling mill employe.

The tragedy occurred just before midnight. Cramer had been watching the three men for 10 minutes, according to his story, before they entered Greenfield's car. As they started to drive it away, Cramer let go his artillery. The first bullet pierced the left door of the car and lodged in the cushion beneath Yarber. The next bullet crashed into Yarber's left side, going clear through the body and lodging under the skin on the right shoulder. Yarber crumpled over lifeless in the driver's seat.

Mrs. Clara Milton, of this city, mother of the victim of Cramer's shooting, said her boy had been staying with relatives at Cincinnati and had not been working the last few days. She saw him the last time she said in front of a picture show here Wednesday night.

Should the budget commission grant the request of the East Liverpool council, the millage will be taken from the school apportionment.

"It looks as if the council of East Liverpool has literally stolen the thunder of the East Liverpool board of education," County Auditor Walker said.

Does Golfer Hagen Fear Duncan? Asks London Standard

LONDON, Aug. 14.—"Does Hagen fear Duncan?"

The Evening Standard makes this query today, pointing out that Walter Hagen has not yet replied to a challenge from George Duncan for a 72-hole match for $2500 over the Pine Valley course in Philadelphia.

"After his attack on British golfers it is obvious that he can't afford to be beaten by one or he would be the laughing stock of the whole golfing word," said the Standard.

The Standard attacks Hagen as a schemer who is always striving to gain a moral advantage over his opponents by any form of tactics."

Duncan is one man that Hagen can not worry or upset, the newspaper says, adding:

"Hagen can only draw the princely salary of $30,000 a year for four months' work in Florida, as he retains his popularity. He may have concluded is would be unwise to risk his reputation being further damaged as it wuld be if Duncan beat him."

Faces Non-Support Charge.

Charles Casto was arrested yesterday afternoon in Third street on a charge of non-support and intoxication. He will be arraigned Monday before Judge Hanley in municipal court.

He was under a $500 bond in connection with an old liquor charge. He was arrested yesterday morning at his home by prohibition officers who took him to a justice court at Bloomfield.

Risler was represented by the law firm, Cohen and Gardner, which defended him during his long murder trial, and pleaded not guilty.

The dry officers charged Risler with having had two bottles of beer in his home at the time that McCoy raided the place and was killed. The beer constituted exhibits A and B at the murder trial.

The body is at the home of Rawlings V. Whittemore, Jr., the gunman's brother. A reporter who called at the house this morning was ordered away. A crepe hangs on the door. "Jungle" Halts Quiz

murderers of Mellett or that you could personally present the case to a grand jury?"

"None," Roach replied.

Confidence in Bernsteen.

It was pointed out to the Chicago investigator that Governor Vic Donahey has been quoted as saying that he was not empowered to act in the Mellett case except should a liquor conspiracy develop that would involve city or county officials.

"The governor will have plenty of legal room for definite action," Roach said.

Regarding the conference that Judge H. C. Pontius, former attorney of the slain publisher, and a "mystery witness" held with District Attorney A. E. Bernsteen, Cleveland, yesterday, Roach today declared that if "evidence revealed there is acted upon one of the most exceptional revelations in criminal history should be uncovered."

Roach repeatedly asserted his complete confidence in Bernsteen and his first assistant, Miles E. Evans, declaring that "they will see this case through to the bitter end, regardless of political and moneyed actions."

Sums Up Evidence.

In the brief, the evidence which Roach claimed to have gathered included, according to his statements today, the following alleged facts:

That several Canton policemen will eventually be linked with the actual crime.

That a Canton detective drove a liquor truck from Cleveland to Canton during the inception of the murder plot and that "Red" McDermott, alleged triggerman, accompanied the detective on the liquor truck trip here.

That despite the investigation carried on here during the past four weeks the lawless element has flaunted the flag of scorn in the face of the police department by continuing, unabated, its illegitimate practices.

That a huge whisky and narcotic bootlegging ring, evidently a part of a Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit and Chicago conspiracy, existed here, presumably under the protection of certain law enforcement agencies.

Detectives "Marking Time."

While Roach was making these startling disclosures, operatives under Ora Slater, Cincinnati detective, in charge of the investigation, were admittedly "marking time" until McDermott is captured.

County Prosecuetor C. B. McClintock was preparing to go before the grand jury which is scheduled to meet Monday. He has subpoenaed eight newspaper men who he hopes will throw some light on alleged affidavits which were claimed to have connected several prominent persons with purchases of whisky.

Seeks Special Prosecutor.

CANTON, O., Aug. 14. — County Prosecutor C. B. McClintock will ask Attorney General C. C. Crabbe for a special prosecutor to assist him in presenting the murder case of Don R. Mellett before a Stark county grand jury the week of August 30, it was declared today.

"If there is testimony available to show who killed Mellett we most certainly want it," McClintock asserted.

"The grand jury investigation will be wide open to investigators who claim to possess evidence in the crime," he added.

Federal, state, county and city investigators will undoubtedly be called before the jury, the prosecutor indicated.

Witnesses and persons who are claimed to have information involving the murders will be subpoenaed in wholesale lots, it was declared by those closest to the investigation.

The Canton Daily News says that it was reported today that Prosecutor McClintock was summoned Friday to the office of Attorney George H. Clark, former justice of the Ohio supreme court, who advised against federal participation in the probe.

The Daily News also says that "the pressure which is being brought to bear upon McClintock to induce him to regard lightly the evidence produced by Joseph R. Roach and others, was the subject of discussion Thursday at a conference in Cleveland between McClintock and A. E. Bernsteen, district attorney, it was learned today .

Three New Witnesses Held In Hall-Mills Murder Probe

They are Expected to Support Testimony of "Pig Woman" That She Saw Double Tragedy.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 14.—Three new witnesses were being held in leash by the state today to support the testimony of Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "pig woman," that she saw the murders of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills near New Brunswick. Willard Straub, 27, of New Brunswick, the state's "ace in the hole," was being held in default of $3,000 bail as a material witness. Four years' hiding of vital knowledge of the murders to prevent a young woman becoming involved in the inquiry is the role said to have been played by Straub. Straub and the young woman were said to have stood within 75 feet of the crab-apple tree under which the rector and his "soul mate" were shot to death.

The other witnesses are Mr. and Mrs. Morris Eisler of Highland Park, N. J., reported to have been motoring near the murder scene on the night of the double tragedy.

IN MEMORIAM.

In memory of Mrs. R. B. Stevenson, who died one year ago today:

One more loving friend has left us,
One with whom 'twas hard to part;
One whose life work is ended
With the warm love of her heart.

Far beyond that lovely shore,
Where loved ones have gone before,
And where God will always send
Those true and loving friends.

Mother's gone far across that shore
To a bright and shining land
Where the light will always shine
For to meet loved ones left behind.

Loving husband, loving children,
Look to God and try to smile;
Mother's only gone before you
For a very little while.

Mourning husband, mourning children, cease your weeping,
Lift you eyes above the sod.
Although mother's sleeping in her grave
And her spirit gone with God.

To seek her peaceful rest
She's left her husband, children, friends and all.
Who may by God be blessed.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The high priced industrial and motor stocks continued without interruption the enthusiastic forward movement in prices which featured Friday's close. Under the lead of General Motors and United States Steel bullish forces marked up prices from 2 to 10 points in the first period today, after which the pace slackened somewhat and the volume of trading declined.

Strength in General Motors was attributed to the very favorable impression created by the awarding of the cash dividend this quarter on the additional stock given as a stock dividend. After a split opening at 210 to 211½ the stock advanced vigorously to 214. Hudson and Chrysler were also strong and active.

Being under similar control, United States Steel will doubtless follow the melon—cutting example set by General Motors, according to the boosters of steel stock in the financial district. Enthusiastic buying of that stock today lifted the price to above 155, only fractionally below the record price for all time. The independent steels continued to attract good buying as also did the equipments and the coppers, American smelting rising buoyantly to 150, the highest price of the year.

Railroad stocks continued to hold their gains, but trading in that section of the market fell off appreciably, and the rails were not able to furnish the aggressive leadership which characterized them in Friday's session. Chesapeake and Ohio was well bought around 147.

There were no disquieting week-end developments and nothing to detract from the splendid performance of the country's industrial and commercial enterprises. Wall street approves heartily of the advance in the rediscount rate of the reserve bank, reflecting as it does need for funds in the expanding business of the nation. Commodity markets were slightly unsettled at the week-end.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The high priced industrial and motor stocks continued without interruption the enthusiastic forward movement in prices which featured Friday's close. Under the lead of General Motors and United States Steel bullish forces marked up prices from 2 to 10 points in the first period today, after which the pace slackened somewhat and the volume of trading declined.

Strength in General Motors was attributed to the very favorable impression created by the awarding of the cash dividend this quarter on the additional stock given as a stock dividend. After a split opening at 210 to 211½ the stock advanced vigorously to 214. Hudson and Chrysler were also strong and active.

Being under similar control, United States Steel will doubtless follow the melon—cutting example set by General Motors, according to the boosters of steel stock in the financial district. Enthusiastic buying of that stock today lifted the price to above 155, only fractionally below the record price for all time. The independent steels continued to attract good buying as also did the equipments and the coppers, American smelting rising buoyantly to 150, the highest price of the year.

Railroad stocks continued to hold their gains, but trading in that section of the market fell off appreciably, and the rails were not able to furnish the aggressive leadership which characterized them in Friday's session. Chesapeake and Ohio was well bought around 147.

There were no disquieting week-end developments and nothing to detract from the splendid performance of the country's industrial and commercial enterprises. Wall street approves heartily of the advance in the rediscount rate of the reserve bank, reflecting as it does need for funds in the expanding business of the nation. Commodity markets were slightly unsettled at the week-end.

City League Leaders' Winning Streak Checked By Laughlin

Ashe, Six-Foot Slab Star, Allows Chester Outfit Two Safeties

Singles by Evans and Mike Cebula, the Latter Filling in as Pinch Hitter, are Only Bingles Alloted Second Half Leaders.

GAUNT of frame and elongated of form, Twirler Ashe, several inches over six feet, officiating for Laughlin last night, turned back the Chester pace makers of the City league at Smith field, 3 to 1. He veritably mowed down the opposition, helpless before his speed. He allowed but two bingles during the six inning struggle. Evans, at the first of the game, reached first base on a rap over that station and M. Cebula, pinch swatting for Greene in the final period of play, singled sharply to middle for the brace of bingles garnered by the league leaders.

Barring the first inning when six men faced him he all but retired the opposition in order. He walked P. Bennett with two out in the second and then fanned Evans. In the third, fourth and fifth the Chesterites went out in one, two, three fashion.

Greene was up first in the sixth. "Mike" was called upon by Manager Riley to lead the team out of its place in the background. And the hefty twirler made good by landing on the ball for a clean single to middle-left. Then P. Cebula essayed to send Wyant, running for Mike, around. He struck out. As Pete whiffed hard at the ball, the bat slipped from his hands and landed at the Chester bench. The players fell backward in a heap but no one was injured.

Wilde, next up, was thrown out at first by Finley while the latter gathered in L. McMath's fly, ending the game.

Ashe fanned five, walked two and hit one during the contest. During the entire game he was cheered by the big Laughlin contingent.

Stoffel, permitting a pass and two singles started badly in the second as a double and an error gave the potters another run. When he allowed Parsons to double again, he was supplanted by P. Bennett.

Babb, facing Bennett first, reached the initial corner safely as P. Cebula drew Heckathorne off the bag. The bases were clogged and one out.

But Bennett here struck out Finley. Then Herbert rapped easily to Greene, who stepped on third and a tough situation had been capably handled.

Thereafter, except in the fifth when two hits were made off him, both doubles, he retired the visitors in order. The first of these doubles went for naught since Babb, who made it, was caught at third as he tried to stretch the blow into a triple.

In the sixth Bennett fanned Bubin, Aufderheide and Hunselman consecutively. In all, he fanned eight and walked none. Though handicapped by a two run lead he was practically as effective as Ashe.

Despite the fact that he fanned with the bases loaded, Finley, on two other occasions he batted, connected safely and led both teams in clubbing.

The defeat was the second sustained by Chester this half, the first having been administered by Wellsville early in July. Since then they had won regularly.

Babb walked in the first after Parsons had gone out, P. Cebula to Heckathorne. Finley singled as did Herbert, Babb scoring and Finley reaching third from where he counted as W. Watson was retired. Greene to Heckathorne. Herbert stole second, but Bubin fanned.

Evans, singling in the first, stole third after Greene was hit and finished on Hunselman's over-throw to Herbert. P. Cebula flew to Evans, Greene reaching third. Wilde fanned, but Babb, playing in, was not on the bag when Hunselman threw. The former, however, assisted back to Hunselman in time to retire Greeen at the plate. Wilde stole second and reached third on Ashe's wild throw to second. L. McMath walked and purloined the keystone sack, whereupon F. Marshall fanned.

Aufderheide doubled to right in the second. Hunselman, sacrificing, was safe as L. McMath dropped Babb's assist, enabling Aufderheide to county. Ashe drove to Greene, who threw out Hunselman at the plate. Parsons doubled. B. Bennett then supplanted Stoffel. P. Cebula threw wild to first on Babb's rap. Finley fanned. Herbert drove to Greene, who stepped on third, retiring Parsons.

THREE PIRATE PLAYERS FIRED

Bigbee, Adams Released; Ask Waivers on Carey.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 14.—In one of the most drastic disciplinary steps ever taken by a major league baseball club management, Max Carey, field captain of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and Babe Adams and Carson Bigbee, veteran team-mates today stood permanently lost to the team.

Carey was indefinitely suspended without pay and notified that waivers had been asked upon his services, and his release will follow as soon as the stipulated release period has expired.

Adams and Bigbee were given unconditional releases.

The punishments were announced by Sam Dreyfuss, treasurer and nominal head of the Pirates during the absence of Barney Dreyfuss, owner, following revelations that the trio had asked that Fred Clarke, trainer and assistant manager, be barred from the players' bench.

On Carey's release he will go to the team lowest in standing in the league which may claim him, according to waiver rules.

First intimation that dissension was brewing in the world's champions' ranks came yesterday when the vanguard of the team returned from its eastern trip and it was learned that Carey, Bigbee and Adams had circulated a petition asking that Clarke be kept off the bench for the good of the team.

Traynor Named Captain.

Dreyfuss, Manager Bill McKechnie and Clarke were in conference most of the day, and when they emerged from Dreyfuss' office at Forbes Field a telegraphic summons was sent to other members of the team ordering them to report at the field upon their arrival.

Following the meeting of the players with club officials, Dreyfuss made the startling announcement affecting the three vetweran players. "Pie" Traynor was appointed field captain to succeed Carey.

Notwithstanding the cry that went up from fans and baseball experts that such dractic disruption of the Pirate ranks at this critical stage of the National league pennant race might result disastrously for the team's chances of copping their second consecutive flag, the players took another attitude.

"Watch the team buckle down now that all players have awakened to the fact that their personal popularity alone does not secure their jobs," one player said.

Myers, Shoulder Injured, Back Home

WITH his right shoulder bothering him no little as a result of an injury earlier in the season, Harry "Dutch" Myers, Toledo American association outfielder, is taking a much needed rest at his home in Kensington, and at the same time, awaiting the outcome of his controversy with Casey Stengel, the Mudhens' manager.

Myers played a regular outfield berth with Toledo during the early stages of the season until he injured his shoulder. After that he filled in in pinch roles pending a recovery. But the shoulder became so troublesome that Myers found it difficult to swing a bat and some time ago in Minneapolis he left the club and went home.

Stengel, to put it mildly, didn't approve of Myers' leaving and now objects to paying him back wages. Myers has taken the case up with Landis.

MAY SET NEW RECORD.

ARMY and Navy football officials who at first objected to staging the annual Cadet-Midshipman gridiron frolic at Chicago this year may not regret the move as greatly as they thought they might.

It is estimated that the contest will realize receipts from admission amounting to about $700,000, which would be $200,000 more than that received at a game between California and Stanford, which had been the highest received at an intercollegiate football game.

The seating capacity of the stadium is 100,000. The 40,000 tickets to be held by the Chicago officials will bring $5, $10 and $20 each, the most of them going at the medium figure. It is expected that the boxes will bring $70,000 and the 60,000 tickets of the Army and the Navy will be sold at $3.50 each.

MAKES REAL CATCH.

ALL Izaak Waltons are not men. The fair sex has shown its prowess in a varied assortment of sports and angling is not the least of these.

To prove this there is on display in a downtown store a mounted 17½ pound beauty snared by Mrs. O. E. Greenawalt, of this city, out of the depths of Turtle Lake, Ontario. The fish, a deep water trout, was caught several weeks ago while Mr. and Mrs. Greenawalt were vacationing in the Dominion. It was mounted there and arrived here but a few days ago.

The trout gave Mrs. Greenawalt a battle. A vicious tug stripped her reel and then the unwilling prisoner ducked under the boat and broke the pole. His captor seized the line and finally pulled him into the boat.

Dempsey's Nose O. K.

IT SOILETH not; neither doth it bend—referring to Jack Dempsey's synthetic nose, which, according to Dr. W. E. Ballsinger, the plastic surgeon, is one of the classiest hand made noses in existence.

Dr. Ballsinger makes the statement as he casts verbal brickbats at one Dr. C. Peoria, of Vienna, who makes disparaging remarks to the effect that hot weather will wilt and in other ways misuse the champion's cherished organ of smell.

"Doc" Ballsinger disclaims the use of paraffine in correcting Jack's nose and points out that if ivory were used, as the Vienna doctor suggests, it would be dangerous. A blow, he says, might drive the ivory wedge into the brain.

"Fibro-elastic cartilage from behind the ear was used in the Dempsey operation and the champion's nose is now 25 or 30 per cent stronger than it was before," says Ballsinger.

Ten New Brunswick Tables Installed at American Pool Room

Announcement of the installation of 10 new Brunswick tables, in connection with a remodeling plan, was announced today by the Ganas Brothers, proprietors of the American pool room.

The American pool room has been in operation 12 years in East Sixth street. The interior of the parlors is being completely remodeled and eight new pool and two billiard tables are being installed, together with accessory equipment such as new cues, pool and billiard balls, etc.

The four bowling alleys also are being renovated and with the acquisition of new pins and balls will be ready for the opening of the season about September 1.

A Grand Prix automobile race, the first of its kind in England, will be held at the Brooklands track on August 2.

GOOD BOUTS ON ZILL'S CARD

Young Tommy Crowley to Take on Stablemate.

On August 17, at Idora Park, Youngstown, Johnny "Kid" Roberts, the Huntington, W. Va., "Icicle," will swap punches with George Harris, the Niles blond, in Matchmaker Al Zill's main bout, but the most interesting announcement to a number of East Liverpool fight fans is that Tommy Crowley, Pittsburgh speed merchant, will tangle hooks with Dick McDonie.

McDonie and Crowley are from the same stable and both lads belong to Hub Perdue, but friendship between them ceases the minute they step into the ring.

Crowley is well liked here by the fans who have seen him in action, his latest fistic exploits having been the whippings he handed Jimmy Moore, one of Johnny Kilbane's boys. He knocked Moore out in the third round of their preliminary to the Pete Latzo fight at Steubenville and stopped him again recently at Johnny Byers' Mingo arena.

The Roberts-Harris scrap is the only natural left for Zill while he is still running popular priced affairs. Both were winners on their last appearances in Youngstown, Harris trimming Maglione, of Akron, and Roberts handing George Meenahan a fine lacing.

These two bouts will be supported by two well-balanced prelims, Zill announces. Russ Parsons, of Hutington, W. Va., will meet Jack Brady, of Pittsburgh, at 195 pounds, in the six-round opener. A couple of featherweights are being booked for the other six-rounder.

City League Leaders' Winning Streak Checked By Laughlin

Ashe, Six-Foot Slab Star, Allows Chester Outfit Two Safeties

Singles by Evans and Mike Cebula, the Latter Filling in as Pinch Hitter, are Only Bingles Alloted Second Half Leaders.

GAUNT of frame and elongated of form, Twirler Ashe, several inches over six feet, officiating for Laughlin last night, turned back the Chester pace makers of the City league at Smith field, 3 to 1. He veritably mowed down the opposition, helpless before his speed. He allowed but two bingles during the six inning struggle. Evans, at the first of the game, reached first base on a rap over that station and M. Cebula, pinch swatting for Greene in the final period of play, singled sharply to middle for the brace of bingles garnered by the league leaders.

Barring the first inning when six men faced him he all but retired the opposition in order. He walked P. Bennett with two out in the second and then fanned Evans. In the third, fourth and fifth the Chesterites went out in one, two, three fashion.

Greene was up first in the sixth. "Mike" was called upon by Manager Riley to lead the team out of its place in the background. And the hefty twirler made good by landing on the ball for a clean single to middle-left. Then P. Cebula essayed to send Wyant, running for Mike, around. He struck out. As Pete whiffed hard at the ball, the bat slipped from his hands and landed at the Chester bench. The players fell backward in a heap but no one was injured.

Wilde, next up, was thrown out at first by Finley while the latter gathered in L. McMath's fly, ending the game.

Ashe fanned five, walked two and hit one during the contest. During the entire game he was cheered by the big Laughlin contingent.

Stoffel, permitting a pass and two singles started badly in the second as a double and an error gave the potters another run. When he allowed Parsons to double again, he was supplanted by P. Bennett.

Babb, facing Bennett first, reached the initial corner safely as P. Cebula drew Heckathorne off the bag. The bases were clogged and one out.

But Bennett here struck out Finley. Then Herbert rapped easily to Greene, who stepped on third and a tough situation had been capably handled.

Thereafter, except in the fifth when two hits were made off him, both doubles, he retired the visitors in order. The first of these doubles went for naught since Babb, who made it, was caught at third as he tried to stretch the blow into a triple.

In the sixth Bennett fanned Bubin, Aufderheide and Hunselman consecutively. In all, he fanned eight and walked none. Though handicapped by a two-run lead he was practically as effective as Ashe.

Despite the fact that he fanned with the bases loaded, Finley, on two other occasions he batted, connected safely and led both teams in clubbing.

The defeat was the second sustained by Chester this half, the first having been administered by Wellsville early in July. Since then they had won regularly.

Babb walked in the first after Parsons had gone out, P. Cebula to Heckathorne. Finley singled as did Herbert, Babb scoring and Finley reaching third from where he counted as W. Watson was retired. Greene to Heckathorne. Herbert stole second, but Bubin fanned.

Evans, singling in the first, stole third after Greene was hit and finished on Hunselman's over-throw to Herbert. P. Cebula flew to Evans, Greene reaching third. Wilde fanned, but Babb, playing in, was not on the bag when Hunselman threw. The former, however, assisted back to Hunselman in time to retire Greeen at the plate. Wilde stole second and reached third on Ashe's wild throw to second. L. McMath walked and purloined the keystone sack, whereupon F. Marshall fanned.

Aufderheide doubled to right in the second. Hunselman, sacrificing, was safe as L. McMath dropped Babb's assist, enabling Aufderheide to county. Ashe drove to Greene, who threw out Hunselman at the plate. Parsons doubled. B. Bennett then supplanted Stoffel. P. Cebula threw wild to first on Babb's rap. Finley fanned. Herbert drove to Greene, who stepped on third, retiring Parsons.

Announcement of the installation of 10 new Brunswick tables, in connection with a remodeling plan, was announced today by the Ganas Brothers, proprietors of the American pool room.

The American pool room has been in operation 12 years in East Sixth street. The interior of the parlors is being completely remodeled and eight new pool and two billiard tables are being installed, together with accessory equipment such as new cues, pool and billiard balls, etc.

The four bowling alleys also are being renovated and with the acquisition of new pins and balls will be ready for the opening of the season about September 1.

A Grand Prix automobile race, the first of its kind in England, will be held at the Brooklands track on August 2.

GOOD BOUTS ON ZILL'S CARD

Young Tommy Crowley to Take on Stablemate.

On August 17, at Idora Park, Youngstown, Johnny "Kid" Roberts, the Huntington, W. Va., "Icicle," will swap punches with George Harris, the Niles blond, in Matchmaker Al Zill's main bout, but the most interesting announcement to a number of East Liverpool fight fans is that Tommy Crowley, Pittsburgh speed merchant, will tangle hooks with Dick McDonie.

McDonie and Crowley are from the same stable and both lads belong to Hub Perdue, but friendship between them ceases the minute they step into the ring.

Crowley is well liked here by the fans who have seen him in action, his latest fistic exploits having been the whippings he handed Jimmy Moore, one of Johnny Kilbane's boys. He knocked Moore out in the third round of their preliminary to the Pete Latzo fight at Steubenville and stopped him again recently at Johnny Byers' Mingo arena.

The Roberts-Harris scrap is the only natural left for Zill while he is still running popular priced affairs. Both were winners on their last appearances in Youngstown, Harris trimming Maglione, of Akron, and Roberts handing George Meenahan a fine lacing.

These two bouts will be supported by two well-balanced prelims, Zill announces. Russ Parsons, of Hutington, W. Va., will meet Jack Brady, of Pittsburgh, at 195 pounds, in the six-round opener. A couple of featherweights are being booked for the other six-rounder.

Twin Babies Born To Champ Divers Of Olympic Games

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.— America's chances in future olympiads were brighter today as a result of the birth of twin babies, a boy and a girl, to Betty Becker Pinkston, Olympic champion diver of 1924, and Clarence Pinkston, champion diver of the 1920 Olympic games.

Pinkston, five times national champion, met and won Miss Becker, former Atlantic City girl, while they were returning from the Paris olympiad.

LOIS MORAN AT AMERICAN

"The Reckless Lady" is Screen Offering for Three Days.

Lois Moran, the "wonder actress," is conceded by all critics to be on the high road of film success although she has just completed her third picture and hardly completed her sixteenth year.

Miss Moran's latest screen vehicle is "The Reckless Lady," from the novel by Sir Philip Gibbs, which comes Monday to the American theatre. In the featured cast are Ben Lyon, Belle Bennett, James Kirkwood, Lowell Sherman and Charlies Murray.

The little actress was discovered by an American film producer in Paris, although she is an American. Her first two pictures were such instantaneous successes that she is now approaching the threshold of stardom. She has appeared in "Stella Dallas," Richard Barthelmess' "Just Suppose," and now in "The Reckless Lady," a Robert Kane production for First National.

Miss Moran is the distinct opposite of the flapper type. Her hair is unbobbed. She is reserved in manner, but her beautiful face is a remarkable study. The ease and clarity of her expressions are almost breath-taking. And she has a swetness and wistful fragrance about her that is utterly captivating.

William Lodge's orchestra will feature special music during the three-day run of "The Reckless Lady."

RICHARD DIX IN FILM HIT

"Say It Again," Another Success, at Ceramic.

The third Richard Dix success in a row is a record to be proud of. Yet, that is just what Director Gregory La Cava has achieved. Starting with "Womanhandled," his name on the billing became something to think about. "Let's Get Married" proved the first film was not just a "flash in the pan." Now—"Say It Again," Richard's third Paramount comedy to be directed by La Cava, which comes to the Ceramic theatre on Monday, definitely proves him to be no longer a "comer" but instead, one who is very much "arrived."

Mr. La Cava has had an unusual career. He started out to be a painter, later became a newspaper cartoonist, and then made animated cartoons for movies.

Little more than a year ago, La Cava joined Paramount. He helped on "Too Many Kisses," directed scenes for Dix's, "The Shock Punch" on the steel framework of the unfinished New York Telephone company building, and took charge of the racing scenes in "The Lucky Devil."

THIEVES GET DURANT JEWELS

Attempt Made to Keep Robbery Secret in Deal, N. J.

DEAL, N. J., Aug. 14.—Seventy-five thousand dollars in jewels were stolen from the home of William C. Durant, automobile manufacturer and stock market operator, it was learned today.

Extraordinary precautions were taken by both Durant and the authorities to keep the loss secret, even after an arrest had been made in the case. The jewels were those of Mrs. Durant and were taken from a safe in the Durant home here, on August 1, while Mr. and Mrs. Durant were away.

John Morciscak, who was a butler for Durant until a few months ago, was arrested and held in jail at Freehold on an open charge. John J. Quinn, prosecutor of Monmouth county, refused to tell Morciscak's lawyer, Andrew Stokes, why the latter was being questioned about a burglary. Stokes said he would take the case into court unless a specific charge was made against the butler and Morciscak was released.

Detectives are working on the case.

Alex Steinfeld Makes First Visit Here in 20 Years

Alexander Steinfeld, of Rochester, N. Y., for the past 20 years with the Michael Stern Co., is making his first visit to the city in that period of time. He is the guest of his brother, Louis Steinfeld, of College street.

Mr. Steinfeld remembers vividly an experience that occurred on the occasion of his visit here a score of years ago. While standing in front of the Review-Tribune office, then known as the News Review, a baby carriage, with a mite of a youngster in it, started down the pavement, ran off the curb and headed on to the stret car tracks in the path of an approaching car. Mr. Steinfeld ran to the carriage, stopped it and pulled the Lifant to safety.

ficult for the house to reject it. This clever maneuver might have succeeded had not President Harding been determined to veto the bonus bill. He realized that to veto the bill with the McNary reclamation amendment in it would look like a breach of faith with the western governors, and right here he began pulling wires as only an experienced legislator could pull them, without having presidential influence appear in the matter.

As a result the bill went to conference with the senate standing firm for the McNary amendment, but it came out of conference with the McNary amendment removed. Somewhere during that senate-house conference committee's work, the reclamation bill had been painlessly extracted from the soldiers' bonus bill. President Harding then vetoed the bonus, and left the responsibility for not passing the McNary act on the house of representatives.

Failure by congress to accept that act had much to do with the president's appeal to Secretary Work to develop a measure which would relieve the settlers on irrigated lands from unfair obligations. Dr. Work accomplished this through the Fact Finding Commission, and thus the efforts of President Harding have finally come to what seems like a successful fruition. The western states have not yet secured the whole of the new reclamation bill proposed by Senator McNary and his associates, but they have got as much as President Harding could get for them.

Under Dr. Mead's direction, and aided by the new legislation, the irrigation projects are being treated as separate propositions, and agreements are being worked out one by one whereby the settlers are getting a square deal, and possibilities of development of the lands hitherto considered useless on these projects are opening up. There will probably be individual failures by farmers here and there, but the threatened wholesale wiping out of the holdings of large groups has probably been prevented. And the settlers are much more optimistic than they have been for several years.

Attempt Made to Keep Robbery Secret in Deal, N. J.

DEAL, N. J., Aug. 14.—Seventy-five thousand dollars in jewels were stolen from the home of William C. Durant, automobile manufacturer and stock market operator, it was learned today.

Extraordinary precautions were taken by both Durant and the authorities to keep the loss secret, even after an arrest had been made in the case. The jewels were those of Mrs. Durant and were taken from a safe in the Durant home here, on August 1, while Mr. and Mrs. Durant were away.

Stokes said he would take the case into court unless a specific charge was made against the butler and Morciscak was released.
